

All But Few of 410 Offices Shut Down

Both Sides Agree Mail Strike Solid One

● Citizens try to cope as postal service comes to stop. Page 13.

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials of the postal union and the post office department found something on which to agree Thursday — the strike by some 24,000 postal workers is a solid one. William Houle, co-chairman of the Council of Postal Unions, interviewed a few hours after the 2 a.m. PDT start of the national strike, said, "It appears everyone is out."

A department spokesman agreed, "It's a pretty solid strike," he said. Of the department's 410 offices, all but a couple of dozen were effectively shut down. The walkout followed rejection by the council Wednesday of a 15-cent hourly wage increase over a 14-month contract and the demand for improvements in working conditions. The union wants a 15-cent hourly increase, though they say they'll tone this down if certain fringe benefits are granted.

Houle took a Canadian Press reporter on a tour of the council's spacious national strike headquarters in a centre-town office building here.

He pointed to a huge wall map showing Canada broken up into 15 strike zones and outlined the communication network.

Mediation meetings by Judge Rene Lippe have been adjourned until 3 p.m. Sunday, when he will sit again with council and government treasury board representatives. Houle said the strike is much better organized than the walkout in 1965. Most workers returned within a week, although Montreal unionists stayed out for 16 days.

A short, stocky, almost cherubic 50-year-old, Houle played a less important role in the 1965 strike and in the near-strike of 1966, when last-minute mediation averted a walkout. He was president of the Montreal local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers in those days.

Now, along with Roger Decarie, president of the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada, Houle is Reaction to severed postal communications will climax in a week when companies offering alternatives to mail delivery expect to be inundated with messages.

Douglas:

Don't Count Me Out

REGINA (CP) — T. C. Douglas said Thursday the federal executive of the New Democratic Party has asked him to stay on as leader until July, 1969.

"Don't count on my not going back to the House of Commons," he told a cheering crowd of delegates to the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan NDP.

Douglas, who suffered personal defeat in Burnaby-Seymour in the June 25 election, had indicated earlier he planned to relinquish the NDP leadership.

Returning to the province where he was premier from 1964 to 1967, Douglas said the NDP is "still a vital and living force in the political life of Canada."

As to his possible return to the Commons, the NDP leader said he would not want anyone to give up a seat for him, but there was always the chance of an opening "if someone breaks a leg."

"I will be spreading banana peels all over Parliament Hill," he added.

Douglas said the immediate outlook for agriculture is "not bright" and re-elected that 25 years ago, western farmers organized a protest march in Ottawa.

For Nixon

Former U.S. President Dwight Eisenhower, recuperating from heart attack at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D.C., "flashes his famous grin Thursday while giving personal endorsement to Richard Nixon for Republican presidential nomination, because I believe he'd serve the best interests of the U.S." — (AP).

Business boomed for telephone, telegraph, air express, and the U.S. mail service Thursday, the first day of the strike, as Victorians sought ways of getting messages through.

"But," said Gordon Murphy, spokesman for B.C. Telephone, "it wasn't so much that we couldn't handle it."

PHONES BUSY "We had all available staff in, and our long distance phones were particularly busy, but I think we'll be all right for the first week."

He said business did not get out of hand during the 1965 strike, but was getting to that stage when the strike ended after a week.

"People and businesses can manage without mail for a while, but then they have to communicate if the community isn't to be crippled," he said.

REAL EFFECT "That's when all communications systems will feel the real effect of the strike."

He appealed to all long distance callers to use direct dialing whenever possible to alleviate delays.

There seems to be little possibility of an early settlement according to Gerry Keway, president of the B.C. Telephone Association.

Czechs Defy Demands As Soviet Bloc Splits

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's leaders rejected Thursday Soviet bloc demands that they abandon liberalization and return to the old-guard existence they cast aside six months ago.

In a television speech to the nation, Communist chief Alexander Dubcek said he and the party leadership were determined to continue the new policy though "our road will not be easy" and "we need calm and hard work."

Brezhnev to Prague?

As the Moscow-Prague confrontation thus seemed unresolved, there were these other developments:

● In London, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart suggested that the Soviet Union keep hands off Czechoslovakia.

● In Belgrade, a Yugoslav report from Prague said

Soviet Communist chief Leonid I. Brezhnev will meet with Dubcek Saturday or Sunday. Yugoslav President Tito was reported to have postponed briefly a trip to Prague to stress his solidarity with the independent-minded Czechoslovakia. The Yugoslav Communist party meanwhile declared its full support for Prague in a voluminous document.

● In Moscow, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin met with Czech Deputy Premier Frantisek Hamouz to discuss economic relations, the Soviet news agency Tass said. There were no details.

● In Prague it was announced that Soviet Marshal Ivan Yakubovskiy will return to Moscow today after supervising withdrawal of Soviet troops from Czechoslovakia. About 16,000 Soviet troops were reported still in the country after Warsaw pact maneuvers that ended June 30.

Dubcek said in his speech "we are solving problems which have arisen in our society ... and atmosphere has arisen when everyone can publicly, without fear, honestly and openly arrive at his own opinions."

In reply to a letter from the Soviet Union and four East-bloc allies demanding a halt to the "absolutely unacceptable" liberalization drive, the Czech party president denied Soviet charges.

Fashion Notes From All Over

LONDON (UPI) — Two sentences in The Times Thursday provided a neat commentary on the changing times.

"The guests at the Scala Theatre last night for a sale of ballet costumes by Sotheby's," the newspaper said, "were dripping with pearls, swathed in chiffon, fur and figured brocades. And that was only some of the men."

Turner Turns Aside From Solidarity Line

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Turner will take his arguments for breaking up the Criminal Code revision bill into sections to the cabinet and the Liberal caucus.

One of the chief men he will have to convince is Prime Minister Trudeau, his predecessor in the justice department, who still favors putting the bill through Parliament as a single item.

Mr. Turner said in an interview Thursday he and Mr. Trudeau "share our convictions" about the proposals to change laws relating to such diverse subjects as abortion, homosexual conduct and control of firearms.

Whether the changes would be presented to Parliament as a single item or broken down into several separate bills is "a matter of tactics or strategy," Mr. Turner said.

Mr. Turner said earlier the bill might be broken up into several separate items, permitting MPs to vote against one particular matter without opposing the entire scope of change.

"I want to make sure that an MP who is against abortion but for a tougher firearms law doesn't lose his vote," Mr. Turner said.

He said there is no question of changing the content of the amendments, introduced in the last Parliament by Mr. Trudeau. The spring recess, during which Mr. Trudeau was elected party leader, and his election call less than three weeks later meant the bill died with the dissolution of Parliament.

B.C. Bank Opens Doors

Bennett Springs Surprises

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Bank of British Columbia was officially opened Thursday with a luncheon, ribbon-cutting ceremony and two surprise announcements.

Premier Bennett, who had fought since 1964 to bring the bank into being, added spice to the ceremony by announcing a start is expected to be made next March 1 on a towering provincial building in Vancouver into which the bank is expected to move its headquarters.

The 35-story building will house provincial offices and also provide headquarters for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and B.C. Hydro and Power Authority as well as the bank. The second unexpected development was the announcement by Albert Hall, president of the new bank, that a Toronto office had been opened simultaneously Thursday.

"This outlet will provide day-to-day information on eastern and international markets and provide the Bank of B.C. with an entry into the eastern money market which should prove very beneficial," said Mr. Hall.

It had been expected that the Toronto office, in effect an administrative office and clearing house for bank business but not a branch accepting deposits, would be opened sometime next year. It will be under the direction of Duke Scott.

"This is a great day for Vancouver and for British Columbia," said Mr. Bennett. "And it is a great day for Canada. We've really got co-operative federalism with this bank. Now B.C. will really be able to keep the rest of Canada afloat."

Ray Flying to U.S. In Tight Secrecy

Trans-Canada Emblem Washes Out Highway

TERRACE BAY, Ont. (CP) — Highway officials said Thursday it could take up to six days to repair a break in the Trans-Canada Highway caused by dam-building beavers.

The dam, about seven miles east of here, washed out one-and-a-half miles of highway when it broke Wednesday and allowed the lake it formed to flow across the road.

LONDON (UPI) — American authorities took custody of James Earl Ray Thursday night. They put the accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King aboard a plane bound for the United States but kept details of his journey secret.

The U.S. Embassy announced Ray had started his journey back to the United States but declined to enlarge on the trip schedule. Other sources said the former Missouri convict was taken to an airfield near London shortly after midnight London time.

LEGAL STEPS

Earlier Thursday British authorities completed legal steps allowing Ray's extradition to the United States.

Ray will go back to Memphis, Tenn., to stand trial for murder in the April 4 sniper slaying of the civil rights leader. Even Ray's American attorney, Arthur Hanes Sr. of Birmingham, Ala., did not know the schedule for Ray's return. He complained he was refused permission to fly back in the plane with Ray.

LAWYER ANGRY

"I don't want this man grilled, cross-examined and interrogated in the plane when I'm not there," Hanes said, adding he had told Ray to "keep his mouth shut" and "not even talk about the weather."

At Memphis, authorities prepared for Ray's arrival by imposing tight security around the concrete county building complex. State troopers, deputy sheriffs and city policemen were placed on duty around the building. They were armed with pistols and night sticks.

British authorities also were secretive about the trip. "There is nothing we can say at the moment," the press secretary for the British Home Office said.

Nanaimo Showing Convention Drive

WHERE OR WHEN: It could well be that Nanaimo will leave Victoria behind in the convention centre business. Our city fathers have been talking about building one for a while now but have got no further than surveying and reporting and then surveying and reporting the reports and surveys.

There was a bit of a flurry when the Wharf Street survey hit the streets, but now the sweet summer lethargy has settled back over City Hall and nothing seems to be happening.

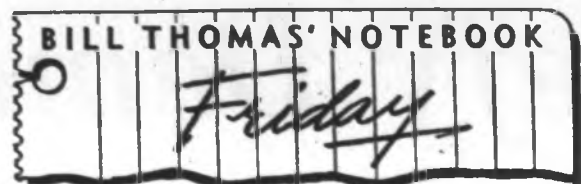

Now and then odd rumors are wafted about like: the CPR is going to put up a convention centre on the old Empress laundry site, or, the Crystal Garden will be turned down for a convention centre.

The bubbles rise on the pond, but usually as far they have only proved to be gas, and they soon burst.

In Nanaimo, the dynamic Mayor Frank Ney is getting more action than the city slickers here. (Sorry about the word city slickers, it was improper for it implies activist and that's the last thing we can charge our city fathers with being.)

Mayor Ney has plans afoot for a $2,500,000 convention centre to be built on land claimed from the sea along the Nanaimo waterfront.

The plan has been stimulated by the Gyro Club and it includes provision for a banquet room, swimming pool, theatre and curling rink. As Mayor Ney says, "We may pull it off first and put Victoria in the shade. Harrison is booked year round now and we feel Vancouver Island has even more potential."

The banquet room would handle up to 2,000 people and the theatre would seat 1,200. It's not hard to imagine the business this would generate for the Nanaimo region.

The regional idea is the key to the Nanaimo plan. Mayor Ney says he hopes that within two months a meeting can be called from the regional district to discuss the next step in the plan, which is inevitably financing.

Only problem in discussing anything with Frank Ney right now is that he keeps gurgling about his bathtub race. This event goes Sunday.

Mr. Ney went into the Royal Bank to negotiate a $10,000 loan for a client. He was met by Duane Roote, who was dressed in an old-fashioned, blue-striped bathing suit and a Viking helmet. The loan was forthcoming.

That's the way it is: bathtub songs, bathtub ashtubs, bathtub plugs and bathtub fever.

The two bowler-hatted English hitch-hikers Kenneth Crutchlow and Clifford Atkins, pictured in Thursday's Colonist, are in Nanaimo or the race. They are sleeping aboard Mayor Ney's yacht and are being fed as guests of the town. They have even had a free flight offered so they can return to Vancouver after the race.

Just as an afterthought: if the Victoria city fathers are interested in the convention business, they could talk to Chuck Madill, Bruce Melkie or Wink McDougall in Nanaimo.

WONDER WHY: Most of the reports out of Ottawa speculate on what fun John Diefenbaker will have with the new Liberal government of Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Robert Stanfield is actually the leader of the Opposition. How soon those columnists forget?

POSSIBILITY: It could be Vancouver will make a bit of theatre history Monday when the festival there opens the musical, And Now, Noel Coward.

The show has to be the farthest-out-of-town opening ever to play a shakedown run before hitting Broadway. It opens in New York Sept. 10.

The show is a cavalcade of songs, sketches, excerpts from plays and other works of the pertinent and impertinent Noel Coward.

The whole blanc mange is a blend of the things he has done in his 50 years plus in theatre. The cast includes Tom Keneally and Dorothy Loudon, so it could be good.

fine enough to swallow, don't be overly discouraged. It takes time.

Mixing bits of these foods in her strained food, using the softer items at first, will help her get accustomed to eating small bits of things that need chewing, or at least a little gumming. Don't overdo it at first. Just use enough so she begins to get the idea. Later you can gradually increase the soft solids and decrease the pureed or strained food.

Another useful trick is to offer a youngster a bone to pick at, with a few slivers of meat attached.

If she pounds on her tray with it some of the time, waves it around, or whatever, don't blow your cool. Make a game of it. She'll take a whack at trying to get it in her mouth sooner or later.

The Weather

July 19, 1968
Cloudy, clearing in the afternoon. Little change in temperature. Winds light, occasionally westerly 15. Thursday's precipitation nil. Recorded high and low at Nanaimo, 73 and 53. Today's forecast high and low, 72 and 52.

West Coast — Cloudy, few showers over mountains, clearing by afternoon. Little change in temperature. Winds northwesterly 15. Forecast high and low at Tofino, 65 and 52.

North Coast — Mainly sunny. Winds light except occasionally northwesterly 20 in exposed areas. Saturday forecast, mostly sunny.

U.S. State Bans Gasoline Games
BOSTON (AP) — Governor John Volpe of Massachusetts has signed into law an act banning highway games sponsored by major gasoline companies. Frederick Moore, executive secretary of the Retail Gasoline Dealers' Association of Massachusetts, said small dealers had been forced to pay 2½ cents for each card or envelope they gave to their customers.

Mail Strike

Canada and council co-chairman, he's in the driver's seat. "Everything is going smoothly, but why not? We've been getting ready for this strike for six months," Houle said.

Five telephones are used for direct contact with nine strike directors, three directors to each phone.

"They know only their own numbers, to avoid overlapping and delays."

This same network plus telegrams, will be used to pass any settlement recommendation on to the 400 locals.

All locals have ballots on hand. A detailed recommendation would be telegraphed to them, local meetings called, and secret ballots passed around. The results would be tallied locally and the results telegraphed to strike headquarters.

Houle estimates it will take between one and two days to gather results of such a referendum.

A post office department official said that supervisory personnel were doing "house-keeping chores" in most post offices Thursday.

By afternoon, the only offices known here to be open were: Clarendon, Nfld., Chandler and Coaticook in Quebec, Carleton Place, Ont., two unidentified offices in Manitoba, eight in Saskatchewan, and possibly a few in Alberta.

"Most, if not all, of these have no union members and are small points," the official said. An exception was North Battleford, Sask., a larger office where no picketing was in progress at last report, he said.

"It shows our men that they are out for a long session."

He said the men have no strike fund, but that the union will come to their aid, if necessary with a bank loan, should the strike harm their families.

LANDSLIDE: Both Canadian Pacific and Canadian National telecommunications reported landslide increases in the number of messages and money wires.

At Canadian Pacific additional help was barely coping with the rush of telegrams from holiday makers wanting to make reservations or send for additional funds.

"People have to wire money for insurance policies, and other necessary business," a spokesman said.

OVERTIME: At Canadian National business messages and money wires are keeping the staff on overtime and double shifts.

Air Canada and Canadian Pacific Airlines reported a big upsurge in the use of air express and air cargo services.

In Blaine a doubled staff of eight postal employees was swamped.

Blaine postmaster Ted Holtsheimer said stamp sales increased about four times as Canadians crossed the border to use U.S. postal facilities.

U.S. STAMPS: He said one Blaine brokerage firm bought about $1,000 worth of stamps Wednesday for Canadian customers, and that Canadians bought about 2,500 six-cent stamps from a stamp machine outside the post office Wednesday night.

London Talks Aim At African Peace

LONDON (CP) — Urgent moves are under way in London to get warring Nigerian and Biafran leaders back to the conference table as signs indicate an imminent new offensive by federal Nigerian forces.

Commonwealth Secretary General Arnold Smith cut short a vacation in France Friday to return to London after receiving a reply from Biafran leader Col. Chukwu Ojukwu to an appeal he made two weeks ago urging a resumption of talks.

Smith, the former Canadian diplomat, was expected to meet soon with Christopher Mojekwu, the Biafran home affairs commissioner, who is in London.

The secretary-general also was expected to confer with Nigerian authorities in Lagos and in the federal capital of Lagos to determine whether a formula can be found to bring both sides to the conference table.

Meanwhile, a Biafran delegation arrived in Niamey, Niger, to meet a six-nation committee of the Organization of African Unity. The OAU's peace committee, which began meeting Monday, has already heard from Nigeria's federal military ruler, Maj.-Gen. Yakubu Gowon.

In Abuja, Biafra, the defence chief-of-staff of Nigeria's former Eastern Region said of the mission to Niamey: "We have nothing to hide and we hope there will be sincerity on the other side."

Maj.-Gen. Philip Effiong said the civil war continues at full intensity.

"Biafrans will not stop fighting because to stop would mean mass slaughter for them."

Unrest May Spread

Coup Worries Arabs

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iraq's new military regime appeared Thursday to be in firm control of the country following a sudden coup d'etat that sent an atmosphere of unease spreading through the Arab middle East.

Political unrest threatened neighboring Syria, as an exile opposition group based in Lebanon called for the overthrow of the leftist Damascus regime. It charged the Syrian regime was responsible for the Arab defeat in last year's June war against Israel.

The Syrian exile group consists of members of the pan-Arab command of the Baath party and of socialist elements supporting Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unwanted fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Rocket Experts

Sentinel Defence Outdated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nuclear scientist Ralph Lapp said Thursday China would be able to overwhelm the U.S. missile defence system 20 times over with nuclear rockets by 1980.

The respected expert in the field of atomic weapons challenged the Johnson administration's contention that its planned $5 billion Sentinel antiballistic missile system would be effective against China into the 1980s.

There is even a strong chance the Chinese will have more missiles than the planned "thin" Sentinel can stop even before the defence system is deployed, Lapp told UPI in an interview.

WRONG VIEW

"Our defence officials are in effect saying that there is no danger from Chinese missiles for five years and only a limited danger until the 1980s," Lapp said.

"I believe this assessment of China's ICBM (intercontinental ballistic missile) capability to be far short of the mark. My estimate is that they will have 20 of them by 1970, 40 by 1972, 100 by 1974, 200 by 1976, 500 by 1978, and 1,000 by 1980."

Aroused Enough

TREASURY BOARD President Charles M. Drury says it would be irresponsible of the government to permit a prolonged strike of the postal workers. It can be suggested that the irresponsibility started when the postmen among other public employees were given the right to strike if they so chose.

In the wildest strike of 1965, the Colonist observed — and it was far from lonely in this view — that whatever the final outcome of the tie-up of the mails, "It is the . . . responsibility of the federal authority to take action that will guarantee that such a situation will not occur again. Either the postal employees must be placed in the same category as the fire prevention and law enforcement agencies, or a non-strike clause must be written into future contracts."

The Pearson government, however, took no such course but the opposite, and the damage is now done: the people of Canada are once more deprived of an essential service, as could reasonably have been expected. To provide a weapon and not anticipate that it will be used to maximum advantage is wholly unrealistic.

It is up to the government at this point to get the postal workers back on the job as expeditiously as possible — and without paying an exorbitant and inflationary ransom. And next in the order of business, quite obviously, is to do what should have been done the last time, and establish an arbitration system of some kind that will rule out postal and other vital-services strikes in the future.

But the government seems curiously bland about it. Mr. Drury could not define "prolonged." Prime Minister Trudeau in his recent press conference noted that there was a difference between strikes in the private and public sectors: that in the latter the unions were in effect bargaining with the public, particularly the poor and unorganized part of the public, and that the juice they squeezed out of the lemon didn't come from his pocket but the people's. But he also said he would not recommend that Parliament ban strikes in the public service or end them after a limited time.

What we are seeing here appears to be the two-faced approach by the Trudeau administration. The Globe and Mail in Toronto has suggested that the prime minister as a politician knows that in the end he will have to do what the public demands, "and the public is getting angry enough to demand an end to strikes, which may be what Mr. Trudeau wants."

This supposition is strengthened by other remarks of Mr. Drury's: that the best arbiter of the responsibility of a strike by public employees would be "the elected representatives of the public," and that the possible withdrawal of the right to strike is a question on which the government will have to come to some conclusion. A task force on labor-management relations, he said, is already looking into means of avoiding such situations.

Mr. Trudeau, it would seem, would like to appear favorably disposed toward the unions and their real or debatable rights but submissive to the will of an aroused and angry populace. In this case, there is no reason for a "prolonged" delay. Parliament could be called into session in only a week, and there is no doubt that the people of Canada are already sufficiently aroused by the costly and troublesome results of the previous Liberal government's mistake.

Defiant Answer

THE FINE PHRASES of Mr. Leonid Brezhnev, president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, smack strongly of hypocrisy. Probably the most powerful political figure in Russia, he had tears in his eyes when he declared in Prague last June that his country was innocent of any interference in the domestic affairs of Czechoslovakia.

But on Wednesday Mr. Alexander Dubcek, the liberal-minded president of Czechoslovakia, got the true message from Moscow.

Russia is demanding that he reverse his liberalization process, supported by the sympathetic Communist hardline governments of Poland, East Germany, Bulgaria and Hungary. And he, gorgeously, has refused.

The possibility of armed intervention cannot be ruled out, for the Soviet has branded the Czechoslovak progressives with the same infamous mark of counter-revolutionism which was applied to the Hungarian reformists in 1956, and used as justification for military suppression then.

An undisclosed number of Russian troops is still in Czechoslovak soil where they were engaged in manoeuvres until the end of June.

The Soviet affects to believe that the system ordained by its Communist Party is absolute, and that anything which deviates from it, even such modest modifications as Mr. Dubcek's, must be destroyed.

This is a strange and apparently contradictory attitude in view of the liberalization which the Russians themselves have practised since the years of the dictatorship under Josef Stalin. For their deviation from the Marxist code they have been condemned by Peking. Now they, in turn, are denying to the Czechoslovakians the right of decision.

The Russian policy is based not on concern for Czechoslovakia's ideological chastity but on the fear of a political void opening in other countries signatory to the Warsaw Pact, and even within the Soviet Union itself. That fear is most apparent in Poland and East Germany, whose conservative Communist leaders are afraid of the liberal contagion and the same fate which finally overtook the discredited Mr. Antonin Novotny, whom Mr. Dubcek ousted and succeeded.

There is one development, however, which might dissuade the Soviet from the armed intervention which now threatens. That is the reaction of other Communist states, Romania and Yugoslavia, and the Communist parties of Western Europe. They have expressed sympathy and support for the government in Prague. The question is whether Russia would risk a further schism in the Communist world by answering the Czechoslovakian defiance with guns.

For the condemnation of the free nations, of course, the Soviet cares not a jot.

Seven Sheiks Forgetting Rivalries

By ROY FERRITT from Abu Dhabi

SEVEN sheiks and some 300 of their courtiers and retainers flowed into a long, cool chamber on the turreted shores of the Gulf and sat down to a noontime feast. Britain's decision to withdraw her troops and supervisory presence from the Persian Gulf by 1971 is carrying some unusual events in its train, and this was one of them.

The guests addressed themselves to the billions of rice, the thousands of chickens, the dishes of kebabs and curries, with the silent determination of men who have an experience of real desert hunger in their makeup, or at least, in the case of the several multi-millionaires present, some kind of distant memory of it. There was not so much as a murmur of polite conversation. Considering the jealousy, intrigue and feuding in the history of these emirates of the Trucial Coast, most observers were greatly surprised to find them showing such fraternity.

In fact, the rulers had just signed an agreement which is the first important step toward linking their seven sheikhdoms in a federation. The two other British-protected states in the Gulf, Bahrain and Qatar, would also be in it. The task of framing the constitution for the federation has been set afoot. Further discussion will take place on a common currency and postal service, besides a federal capital, a flag and an anthem.

The differences between them are such that they are a long way from being out and dried. But all are keenly aware of the danger of leaving any sign of a vacuum in the security of this fabulously rich area, where the most vicious of trouble can automatically involve the major powers.

From Britain they hear rumors that the present Conservative opposition would postpone or shelve the plan for withdrawal if they gained power in London. But none of the participants appear to believe this likely and, now that they have spontaneously formed the first glimmerings of their own collective security, the beginning of the federation idea think it would be disconcerting to change minds.

They feel under pressure to get things moving. The British army stationed in various places here is probably at brigade strength, say 10,000 troops. The only local defence force are the Trucial Oman Scouts, 1,500 strong, and the Abu Dhabi defence force, the privately-financed 700-man troops of Sheikh Zaid. Both have British officers. The idea of a federal army under one command is too embarrassingly grand an idea to be considered at the moment, but the present forces will have to be enlarged several times over.

The most promising change in the atmosphere is that former interlopers in this sensitive area — all badly shaken by the disastrous possibilities of last year's June war between Israel and the Arabs — now seem to share a common desire for stability in the Gulf.

Not only British diplomats, but the Egyptians, Kuwaitis and Saudis, have been working behind the scenes to persuade the sheiks of the Trucial Coast to forget their rivalries and get together. There may be a touch of time-to-check about it in some instances, it is noticeable that the Saudis, for instance, have not dropped their old, fractious claim to Abu Dhabi's splendidly green and valuable oasis at Buraimi.

The seven sheikhdoms are an odd assortment of lot, even more so possibly than when, over a century ago, the British inveigled them into signing a treaty that would end their piracy against East India Company shipping.

Four of the sheikhdoms have populations of 3,000 or less. In Sharjah, Sheikh Khalid is able to keep the wolf from the door largely because the Royal Air Force pays rent for an airfield. At Ajman, Sheikh Rashid Bin Hamid lives in a hatched-day castle, has no electricity or certain water supply, but keeps his state in funds by handling stamps through the Ajman post office that philatelists are keen to buy — the World Cup issue, the Kennedy issue, and so on.

Sheikh Ahmad at Umm al-Qaiwain is even poorer: his state does a meagre trade in salt fish and tobacco.

At the other end of the scale, almost out of sight of these poor desert mice, the prosperity ranges high. The shrewd Sheikh Rashid of Dubai does well out of customs dues, particularly from the gold-smuggling dhows which use the port. He prefers to spend his day at the customs house overlooking the harbor rather than at the palace, to keep an eye on things. Sheikh Ahmad of Qatar has about $70 million a year in oil revenue and spends a conspicuous amount of it to maintain several sumptuous palaces, an enormous royal family, and several hundred hunting falcons.

The real prodigy of the coast is Abu Dhabi itself, a grey and austere Klondike which would have been hard to invent had it not existed. With a local population of about 25,000 it now has an oil income of $170 million a year, and this will shoot up even further over the next few years. It is going through the drastic transformation of an oil welfare state, as Kuwait did before it. Until the intelligent and temperate Sheikh Zaid took over two years ago his eccentric predecessor, Sheikh Shakhbut, had tended to keep the treasury in a chest under the bed — and his only cautious purchases from visiting salesmen out of his millions had been a typewriter and an espresso coffee machine.

Now about $670 million has been allocated for a five-year plan and buildings of all sorts are shooting up at a prodigious rate. It is expected that very soon Abu Dhabi, which until the oil exploitation began in 1960 was impoverished, will have one hospital for every 150 citizens.

I Beg to Differ . . .

A Useful Role for Television

By FRANK LOWE

SOME time ago, when some expert or other stated that the "average" person spent at least six hours a day in front of the TV set, I indignantly denied this claim.

By using what I thought was simple arithmetic, I proved that no "average" person could possibly spend six hours a day watching TV and still perform such other chores as working, sleeping, eating.

But now a simple, somewhat pathetic letter in the London Sunday Mirror makes me doubt my own argument. It also opens vistas for using TV in a meaningful manner which I have never dreamed of.

The letter, explaining this couple's TV watching habits, went like this: "We find most programs absolutely boring but we dare not switch off. On the two occasions our set has broken down I became pregnant. So now we watch till the white spot disappears or one of us has dropped off to sleep."

As I said, a poignant letter like this makes me reassess my former TV argument. But it also gives me hope that TV does have a useful role to play in this old world of ours.

Just think, with the world facing a population explosion, civilization has come up with the answer, TV.

Instead of shipping tractors and agricultural experts and money and The Pill to places where the population is threatening to get out of hand, we merely ship thousands of cheaply-made TV sets.

It would not only save money. It would have a much better chance of working.

Our other more costly and sophisticated plans to meet the population explosion have not been too successful to date. It takes much time and education to teach the uneducated how to use new agricultural methods to grow more food.

The Pill, of course, presents what amounts to insurmountable problems in mathematics in many areas.

But anyone can be taught to turn on a TV set, and, if the letter in the Sunday Mirror is to be believed, that is all that has to be taught.

One doesn't even have to tell these people how to turn it off — because as long as the set is working, the problem of overpopulation is being solved.

Mind you, we would have to be careful about the programs we sent along to be shown on these sets. Remember what the cheap, mass-produced radio did.

It became the greatest inciter of revolution and change the world had ever seen once it started blaring its messages to the unlettered in every village square.

But as long as we sent only the better TV fare — Hogan's Heroes, Bonanza, the Martian, Beverly Hillsbillies, Green Acres, to name a few sure-fire staples — our purpose would be accomplished.

The couples watching these shows until before their befuddled eyes would soon fall safely asleep.

In fact, if we could do this and get all couples in sensitive areas watching that kind of TV for an average of six hours each day, the danger of population explosion would disappear almost overnight.

Washington Calling

Canny Texas Gambler

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WHILE the United States Senate may succeed in blocking confirmation of his appointments to the Supreme Court before the adjournment deadline, President Johnson is still a canny Texas gambler with an ace in the hole. He is letting it be known on Capitol Hill that if a filibuster blocks confirmation of Abe Fortas as chief justice and Homer Thornberry as associate justice he will call Congress back in special session after the political conventions.

That would be an extraordinary embarrassment for the Republican bloc led by Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan vowing to stop the nominations. Senators up for re-election would be dragged out of the campaign at the crucial starting line in September.

There is a precedent for recalling Congress which should chill Republican hearts. In the summer of 1948 after he had been re-nominated to run for a full term, President Harry Truman called Congress back into session with a demand that the Republican majority pass a whole series of measures previously turned down. That was the famous Turnip Day session, so called by the president after a more or less mythical fertility rite in his native Missouri. Truman got the headlines with the charge that Congress had let the people down. With Congress taking a second time this was the springboard for his fall campaign when he confounded the pollsters and the pundits by defeating Thomas E. Dewey.

Although Lyndon Johnson has bowed out he would surely not like to turn the reins of power over to a Republican administration and particularly if the Republican president were Richard Nixon. Besides asking for confirmation of his Supreme Court appointments the president could call for passage of measures such as the gun licensing bill that Congress is about to turn down. This would give Johnson a dominant role.

Separate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield appraises the chances of confirmation before the August 3 deadline at 50-50. He does not underestimate the obstructive power of the opposition.

No one questions that a sizable majority would approve Fortas and Thornberry if their names came up for a vote. But Griffin promises a filibuster which in the last-minute jam with Republicans departing for the Miami Beach convention could kill the nominations. Or the 19 Republicans Griffin signed up to demand that vacancies on the court be filled by a lame-duck president but by his successor two are likely to be dropouts. Sen. Thurgood Morton, closely allied with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller who has defended the president's right to fill the vacancies, will take his name off and Hawaii's Sen. Hiram L. Fong is said to be considering a similar move.

Griffin claims, however, that he has four or five adherents whose names are not on the list. Moreover, if and when the filibuster gets going he will have the support of Southern Democrats who traditionally oppose any move to shut off debate by a two-thirds vote. As always these allies will have the noble motive of preserving the right of untrammelled discussion. But they will welcome the opportunity to embarrass a president seeking to preserve the liberal trend on the court.

Calm and collected as always, Chief Justice Earl Warren is prepared to serve indefinitely if the Senate does sit out on the Johnson nominations. Although he gave age as the reason for retiring, his health at 77 is excellent and his faculties appear unimpaired.

Warren's strong feelings about Nixon are irrelevant to the constitutional issues in the controversy. Nevertheless, they cannot be ignored, especially since Nixon has given his approval to the Griffin manoeuvre. In the fighting between Robert Taft and Dwight Eisenhower for the Republican nomination in 1952 the then California governor was on his way to the convention on a special train with the state's TV delegates in his pocket as a favorable sign and a gleam of hope that he might be a compromise choice. Nixon flew out to Denver, boarded the train and persuaded enough of the delegates to switch to Ike to dash that hope.

Advanced age is no barrier to service on the Supreme Court. Warren can cite the example of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who retired in 1932 at 90 after 29 years on the bench. Justice Hugo L. Black has shown no sign of retiring at the age of 82.

No vacancy will exist until the president accepts Warren's retirement. In the unlikely event that the Fortas-Thornberry nominations are blocked and Johnson faces the prospect in January of riding down Pennsylvania Avenue to see a Republican inaugurated as president, he can simply return the Warren letter asking for retirement as a piece of unfinished business.

Unlikely, it must be added, because many of Griffin's Republican colleagues, including Minority Leader Everett McKinley Dirksen, believe that whatever the merits of his opposition to a lame-duck appointment it is a losing game politically. Fortas would be the first Jewish chief justice as Thurgood Marshall was the first Negro on the court, and this poses high with minority groups.

Denmark Says No

By ROLAND HUNTFORD from Copenhagen

THE Danish government has refused to allow American scientists to carry out rocket launchings on Greenland.

The official reason given is that the local population has been ill at ease since an American bomber armed with nuclear weapons crashed on the Northern Greenland coast during January. It would be wrong to add to their worries by rocket firings, officials say. But the real cause of the ban is more likely to be a demonstration of Danish sovereignty in Greenland.

Ever since the United States leased air and radar bases in Northern Greenland in 1946, the Danes have been periodically irritated by what they consider American presumption and neglect of Copenhagen's authority. They claim that American officials take most things for granted, and act as if Greenland belonged to the United States.

American officials are said to neglect some of the rules governing the bases. These mostly concern the clearance of certain operations with the Danish government, chiefly rocket launchings and movement of troops and aircraft. It is a Danish complaint that these take place without consultation, or at such short notice as to suggest scant respect for Danish sovereignty.

Most American activity in Greenland is military. It is concentrated on the Thule base, in northern Greenland, and is concerned with the Early Warning System, a radar network guarding the North American continent against missiles coming over the North Pole. It is clearly vital work, which Denmark, as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, has no wish to impede.

Military secrecy alone would be sufficient reason to prevent a public demonstration over most American activities.

But the case of the rockets is different, for their purpose is not military. According to the scientists concerned, they were to be used to measure the effects of sunspots. Danish scientists were to cooperate in the work, and it seemed quite certain that the launchings were innocuous.

But precisely on that account, the Danes were able to use them for a public demonstration. It appears that American officials had first shipped the rockets — there were 50, all told — and then informed the Danish government about them. The Danes then decided to say "no."

It is understood that if Copenhagen had been informed in good time, and certainly before the rockets were sent to Greenland, permission for their launching would not have been withheld. But there was a feeling that Danish acquiescence had been taken for granted, and this provoked the reaction.

Both American and Danish scientists claim that the launchings are cancelled, valuable research will be lost. The purpose of the experiment was to investigate the effects of sunspot activity at its height and the scientists claim that this year is one of the rare opportunities in the sunspot cycle. They say they will have to wait over a decade for present conditions to repeat themselves. But Mr. Poul Harting, the Danish foreign minister, (presumably acting on expert advice) says that next year will do just as well, and that the launchings can wait that long.

The H-bomber crash in January was undoubtedly one reason for the rocket ban. According to the terms of their arrangement with the Danes, the Americans are not supposed to introduce nuclear weapons into Greenland during peacetime. After the crash, reports came to light which suggested that they did in fact do so, perhaps with the tacit agreement of the Danish government.

While the Danes may not want to impede United States defence work in Greenland, they could not exactly ignore what appeared to be a flouting of their authority. The 30 innocent research rockets provided the first opportunity for a public demonstration without hindering the defence of an ally. That it is a demonstration and no more is confirmed by strong Danish hints that if a future application is made and in good time, permission for the launchings will be granted.

Communist Crisis Not Yet Czechmate

Deadly Chess Game Nears Climax

By DAVID PIKE, from New York

Orthodox Eastern European Communists are running scared, and the subject of their fear is that they might stumble and explode—thus spreading fallout which could have long-range effects on East-West relations.

The Soviet Union and its hard-line Communist allies—Poland, East Germany, Hungary and Bulgaria—are demanding, in virtually unprecedented terms, that progressively liberal Czechoslovakia return to rigid dictatorial rule.

The hard-liners—especially Poland and East Germany—are nervous about the Czech Communist party leadership's trend toward socialist democratization, fearful it will create ferment in their regimented states.

Czech reformers are afraid that the Soviet Union, if it can't pressure them to back down, will force them into submission in the manner of 1968, when the U.S.S.R. crushed liberalism in Hungary.

In the apprehensive West, the word being used to describe the situation is "grave." If mere pressure succeeds, East-West relations are bound to be strained. But if the U.S.S.R. uses its military to return Czech conservatives to power, progress toward an East-West detente would suffer a severe blow.

The blow could even strike at efforts to achieve a settlement of the Vietnam war and the Middle East situation.

Western Communist sources in Moscow are reported deeply worried about the possibility of a head-on clash between the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia.

U.S. officials in Washington are said to be gravely concerned, and one report says U.S. diplomats have pointed out to Soviet officials that grave repercussions likely would result if force were used. And Britain has come out and stated bluntly that the U.S.S.R. should keep its hands off Czechoslovakia.

The policy-making central committee of the Czech party is due to meet today to approve the Czech leadership's reply to a letter from the five hard-liners which denounces the trend in Czechoslovakia.

The reply, denying there is anything "counter-revolutionary" about the liberal course, warns that an attempt to restore the conservatives would face "the resistance of the overwhelming majority of the nation."

The hard-liners' letter ordinarily would have been sent to the Czech party presidium or the president, reformist Alexander Dubcek. Instead, it went to the committee.

The hard-liners, moving cautiously, may hope to undercut Dubcek through the committee during the regime of deposed Stalinist Antonin Novotny.

The New York Times quotes well-informed reform Communists in Prague as believing that only 30 of the 118 regular and 30 alternate committee members can be counted on for support of the reforms. The rest are considered either conservative or doubtful.

A Czech party congress is scheduled for September. Dubcek might call it to order much sooner to elect a new committee. Congress delegates, elected recently, would be expected to ensure a reformist body.

Meanwhile, Dubcek is counting on support from Yugoslavia, whose tough President Tito has steered his own course since 1958, and increasingly independent-minded Romania, as well as from the powerful Communist parties of Italy—largest in the West—and France.

Czech Pull-Out Threat to Pact

By PHIL NEWSON, from Bucharest

Soviet foreign policy is facing its greatest test since its rift with Red China. At stake in its quarrel with Czechoslovakia is its carefully constructed line of buffer states running from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

Whereas Moscow could afford an independence-minded Romania to direct its own way toward socialism, only Czechoslovakia offers a direct route border-to-border from West Germany to the Soviet Union.

Without Czechoslovakia, the Warsaw Pact members are split in two and the pact becomes militarily meaningless.

From the menacing tone of the letter written from Warsaw to Czechoslovakia by the hard-line Communist leaders, the Soviets appear to have made it clear they will intervene by force if necessary to preserve the status quo.

But the legalistically-minded Russians are caught on the horns of a dilemma.

At this moment in Czechoslovakia there is no Janos Kadar to proclaim a new government as in 1956 in Hungary and to invite the Russians in.

From the Warsaw letter it appears the Russians are seeking a legal basis for military action, if it becomes necessary. This would be through the pact itself on the basis that a Czechoslovakia influenced or controlled by imperialists endangers the security of all.

It is a kind of reasoning certain to be rejected not only by Czechoslovakia but Romania and Yugoslavia as well. It also would mean an end to any faith in the declared Soviet policy of coexistence.

Twice in recent days, Romanian president and general secretary Nicolae Ceausescu has declared for the Czechs' right to make their own decisions.

In a speech at Galati he said: "...Not for a moment and never has anybody conceived that the Warsaw treaty can be a reason for justifying an interference in the internal affairs of other states."

Heads Cool, But...

By EDWARD J. SHIELDS, from Moscow

Authoritative sources said Thursday "cool heads" in Moscow and Prague were calling the shots in the Soviet-Czechoslovak crisis and that both sides wanted to avoid a military confrontation.

However, these sources did not rule out the possibility that force would be used. "We must be prepared for anything" if compromise fails, one informed Soviet source said.

Moscow already has set its reasons for such action—if it comes. The pace of liberalization in Czechoslovakia is proceeding in a direction "absolutely unacceptable for a socialist country," it said.

He was one of a secret group of officers led by the late dictator Abdel Kerim Kassem who pounced at dawn on July 14, 1968, and wiped out the Iraqi monarchy.

But he fell out with Kassem in 1969 and was retired from the army, only to strike back in February, 1963, when he was a leader in the Baathist coup that toppled Kassem.

By that time Bakr had become a leader in the Baath party, and was appointed premier under the later president Abdel Salam Aref, brother of the president he deposed Wednesday.

The late Aref, however, struck in November of that year and ousted the Baathists, but retained Bakr as vice-president.

The Aref coup was the beginning of political oblivion for Bakr. He resigned from the vice-presidency early in 1964 and was made an ambassador attached to the foreign ministry. He retired from politics a short while later.

He was pensioned from the army in September, 1964 and blended into the background of Iraq's turbulent political scene, apparently never to return.

But in April this year he came to the front again. A group of 13 top army officers presented a memo to President Aref—who had mean-

'Turn For Worse'

By K. C. THALER
(From London)

Diplomatic sources said Thursday the threat of outright Soviet intervention in the Czech crisis has emerged as a real possibility.

Russia has warned Prague it considers the international balance of power threatened by Czechoslovakia's move along an independent road. And the Czech regime of Alexander Dubcek said in unmistakable terms it means to go ahead whether Russia likes it or not.

Diplomats in London said they believed the terms of the Warsaw Pact message handed to Czech leaders after a secret meeting of top Communist brass in Warsaw are tough in the extreme. The message, which spoke of "foreign links" of the Czech liberalization movement, warned the fight to save socialism in Czechoslovakia was "not only your fight but also ours."

"We will not permit imperialism to split the socialist camp..." she warning said. "There must be no change in the balance of power."

Prague replied that if Russia tries force it will meet with countryside resistance in Czechoslovakia and is prepared to defend its borders.

At the same time, the regime emphasized that it plans to maintain its socialist structure and has no intention of reorienting its foreign policy. Diplomats who studied the exchange said they indicated a serious turn for the worse. The threat of outright Soviet intervention had been believed unlikely, they said, but the hard-line tone of the messages now makes it a real possibility.

Three diplomats added that when Prague gives its reply to the Warsaw Pact message this weekend the crisis may come to a head.

They said the message clearly has served notice. Russia considers the policy of the new Prague regime of Dubcek as a threat to the security of the Soviet Union and its allies.

The message thus is tantamount to an ultimatum. Although the Soviet Union has not spelled out what action might be taken against Czechoslovakia to bring her back into line, diplomats said two courses are open:

● Moscow could step up political and economic pressure. It could apply economic sanctions against Czechoslovakia, which is heavily dependent on Russian supplies.

● Moscow could use outright military intervention for the first time since the 1956 Hungarian revolution.

At the moment there is no reliable estimate of how many Soviet troops are in Czechoslovakia but unofficial guesses have put them as high as 25,000 with 1,000 tanks in the country.

Iraq's Bakr Lifelong Rebel

AP, from Beirut, Lebanon

Maj.-Gen. Ahmed Hassan al Bakr, the new president of Iraq, is a revolutionary from way back.

The 52-year-old army officer apparently led the coup that toppled former president Abdel Rahman Aref Wednesday and sent him into exile in Britain.

The handsome Bakr has a deceptively mild manner, does not drink and is known to be a pious Moslem who prays five times a day.

But his revolutionary career began when he was still a student at the Iraqi Military Academy. He found an outlet by joining the secret Baath Socialist party and has had numerous ups and downs since then.

He was one of a secret group of officers led by the late dictator Abdel Kerim Kassem who pounced at dawn on July 14, 1968, and wiped out the Iraqi monarchy.

But he fell out with Kassem in 1969 and was retired from the army, only to strike back in February, 1963, when he was a leader in the Baathist coup that toppled Kassem.

By that time Bakr had become a leader in the Baath party, and was appointed premier under the later president Abdel Salam Aref, brother of the president he deposed Wednesday.

after the latter died in a helicopter crash—demanding reforms and an end to corruption.

The Aref regime by then was rapidly running out of options, and the crisis came to a head in the coup Wednesday.

Bakr is known to be a moderate Socialist, but the political coloring of his partners in the new all-powerful Revolutionary Command Council remains unknown.

Bakr's installation as president is bound to displease the Baath Socialist rulers in neighboring Syria. They belong to a radical wing of the party that is opposed to Bakr.

False Alarm

Fatalities Blamed On Sailor

NEW YORK (AP) — A 19-year-old sailor was held Thursday on a charge of turning in a false fire alarm which officials said delayed firemen from reaching a real blaze in which 11 persons perished.

Prison Gov. a medical corporation attached to St. Albans Naval Hospital, was held in $1,000 bail.

Nine children and two adults were killed in the fire that was discovered a few minutes after the false alarm was turned in at 1:10 a.m. seven blocks away.

"It is hard not to be for the false alarm, many if not all of these fatalities might have been avoided," said Fire Chief John O'Hagan.

FATAL MINUTES

Mayor John V. Lindsay said the false alarm caused a three-to-four-minute delay "that meant the difference between life and death."

The fire apparently started in the kitchen and roared up the stairwell of the two-story structure on a residential street in the St. Albans section of Queens.

Firemen found seven bodies on the second floor and four in the attic.

Johnson greets Thieu in Honolulu

Bonn Defence Chief Will Visit Canada

BONN (UPI) — Defence Minister Gerhard Schröder will visit Canada July 24-26 to discuss defence problems with his Canadian counterpart, Leo Cadieux, a government spokesman said Thursday. West German defence ministry officials described Schröder's visit to Canada as a "routine contact" with Cadieux.

German officials would disclose no details of Schröder's visit nor the subject of the talks.

They would only say he would discuss "mutual defence problems" with the Canadians.

UP TO HOSTS

On his touring Canadian military installations, the Germans said it was "up to the Canadian hosts" to announce what would be shown to Schröder.

The officials would not comment on recent Canadian newspaper reports that Schröder would discuss West German defence orders with Cadieux.

The Canadian reports said the talks would include a possible procurement of the CL-38 Drone reconnaissance system, a joint Canadian-British development.

WASHINGTON FIRST

Before going to Canada, Schröder who suffered a heart attack at his summer home last year, will visit Washington for talks with the U.S. Defence Secretary Clark Clifford, July 23-24.

The 57-year-old Schröder is also scheduled to have talks with other American officials during his stay in Washington.

German officials said the Washington talks would also concern "defence and security questions."

Czechs Defiant

the charge that counter-revolutionaries had taken hold "without meeting due resistance on the part of the party and the people in power."

The Czechoslovak stand seemed to be splitting Europe's Communists into two sharply antagonistic groups — Prague backers and Prague opponents.

The orthodox parties had told the Prague leadership in their last letter that they regarded it as "our task" to see tight party control re-established, press censorship returned and anti-Communist forces dealt a "decisive rebuff."

The official Czechoslovak reply was cordially worded, but a communist report from knowledgeable Yugoslav sources here said government political circles considered the demands "absolute and direct interference in Czechoslovak internal affairs."

The Yugoslav sources said the Czechoslovaks were particularly upset by a line in the letter which said, "other socialist countries cannot agree with the present developments in Czechoslovakia."

The Czechoslovaks were said to interpret it as a statement that Moscow and its allies reserved the right to intervene against Prague if the liberals did not give in.

This contrasted with the letter's assertion that "we neither had nor have an intention to interfere in such affairs which are strictly the internal business of your party and your state." Officially, the Czechoslovaks said they "welcomed" this assurance.

The confrontation over the Czechoslovak issue has forced Western Europe's two biggest Communist parties, those of France and Italy, away from their nominal friendship with Moscow and to the side of Prague.

With them are two other comrades from the Soviet orbit, Romania and Yugoslavia. Both President Tito of Yugoslavia and party chief Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania are expected here shortly for a show of solidarity with Dubcek.

Aligned with the Soviet Union are Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland and East Germany. Hungary is thought to be a moderating influence within the group and Poland and East Germany the toughest members because of their fear that the liberalization drive will reach their populations.

Prague's reply said particular attention was paid to the letter's backing of conservatives led by the ousted president and party chief, Antonin Novotny.

The presidium blamed Novotny for any problems faced by the party, saying he tolerated no criticism and made it seem to the communist world that "everything was in order in Czechoslovakia."

Then it added, by way of warning: "Any indication of a return to these methods would evoke the resistance of the overwhelming majority of party members, the resistance of the working class, the workers, co-operative farmers and of the intelligentsia."

"The party would be such a step toward its leading role and create a situation in which a power struggle could arise."

U.S. Studies Pause In Shelling

WASHINGTON (LAT) — U.S. officials said Thursday it is significant that the enemy has not shelled Saigon since June 20, almost a month ago.

That situation and a general drop in the level of military activity in South Vietnam are being watched closely, it was said.

The implication of these remarks by knowledgeable officials seemed to be that the Johnson administration is trying to determine if North Vietnam is giving the kind of signal that could lead to a breakthrough in the Paris peace talks.

Meeting in Honolulu

LBJ Affirms Viet Support

HONOLULU (UPI) — President Johnson met South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu Thursday and told him America stands firm in its pledge "to help your people defeat aggression."

In colorful welcoming ceremonies at Hickam Air Force base, Thieu replied that he felt "we have every reason to look to the future with confidence."

He said he had come to review with Johnson "the accomplishments as well as the problems which lie in front of us in facing the Communist challenge in Vietnam."

"Our nations share the same ideals of freedom and justice and we are united together in a conflict the outcome of which will affect Pacific nations and the world as a whole."

Thieu helicoptered off to the Royal Hawaiian Hotel after the 20-minute ceremony. He reviewed an honor guard with the president and then shook hands briefly with several Vietnamese students at the University of Hawaii who carried a sign in Vietnamese which translated as "Greetings to the president of the Republic of Vietnam."

Johnson arrived two hours and 40 minutes before Thieu and held conferences with Ambassador Elsworth Barker, Defence Secretary Clark Clifford and Chief of Staff Earle Wheeler before returning to the airport to greet the Vietnamese leader.

"Mr. President, our pledge to help your people defeat aggression stands firm against all obstacles and against any deception," Johnson told Thieu. Johnson spoke first for about five minutes and then Thieu spoke for five minutes.

Thieu said much had happened since his last visit to Honolulu to meet with President Johnson in 1965. He said progress had been made in the defence of Vietnam and "concrete steps had been taken in our search for peace."

Bombing Pact Denied

HONOLULU (UPI) — Secretary of Defence Clark Clifford said Thursday that at no time during his recent conversation with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu did they discuss ending the bombing of the north or possible Saigon talks with the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong).

As President Johnson met with Clifford while awaiting Thieu's arrival, the White House press office relayed to the defence secretary a story from the Los Angeles Times.

"PERSUADED"

The story said that while Clifford was in Saigon he "persuaded" Thieu to accept the idea of ending all U.S. bombing of the North, as well as the idea of South Vietnamese leaders conferring with the NLF.

Through the press office, Clifford had this direct comment on the Los Angeles Times story:

Albertan Prefers North

Ministers Debate Superport Site

VANCOUVER (CP)—A decision to build deep-sea port facilities at nearby Roberts Bank sparked a controversy Thursday between an Alberta and a British Columbia cabinet minister at a seminar.

Construction of the $25,000,000 built-landing port, to be complete by 1970, was attacked by Russell Patrick, Alberta minister of development.

Mr. Patrick said the Prairie provinces feel better Pacific port facilities in Prince Rupert or Kitimat would benefit the Prairie economy more than the Roberts Bank project, which he said is a duplication of present Vancouver facilities.

Ralph Loffmark, British Columbia health minister and former minister of trade, defended the new project.

"I'm optimistic that the growth of trade will help all our ports . . . and I believe the time has come for specialization in use of port facilities," he said.

Pacific Rim was sponsored by the Vancouver Sea Festival, Board of Trade and the University of B.C.

Hoover Raps Campus Group

Violence New Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI director J. Edgar Hoover reported Thursday that a new left student group which instigated campus violence this spring conducted workshops on "sabotage and explosives" at its June national convention.

Hoover identified the Students for a Democratic Society as the core group of what he called "a subversive force which is growing in numbers and militancy."

In an annual report, he declared that the use of violence to destroy the existing social order is inherent to the new left philosophy and added:

"This was particularly evident at the national convention of the Students for a Democratic Society which was held at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich., last June."

Guerrilla Experts Sent Home

TORONTO (UPI) — Two San Francisco men, who claimed to be guerrilla warfare experts, were deported to the United States Thursday after receiving suspended sentences on gun possession charges.

Robert Kaffke, 40, and William Dobbins, 26, were turned over to Canadian Immigration authorities after receiving the suspended sentences in Toronto magistrate's court Wednesday.

When arrested last month, Kaffke told police he was an instructor in guerrilla warfare at an unidentified San Francisco university, and Dobbins was his "student." They said they came to Canada to get visas for Cuba, and then planned to head for international trouble spots where they could use their skills.

points of firing Molotov cocktails from shotguns, as well as similar forms of so-called defence measures which could be used in defiance of police action.

The FBI director also expressed serious concern about developments among black nationalist groups. He said many of them are becoming outright hate organizations, preaching hatred of the white race, advocating violence and demanding immunity from prosecution from their acts.

Hoover added these details: "They explored the use of combustible materials and the various types of bombs which could be devised to destroy communications and plumbing systems of strategic buildings. They even discussed the finer

Doctor Warns Of Diphtheria

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's population has been "rather highly seeded" with diphtheria, says Dr. Gerald Bonham, medical health officer.

In a statement Wednesday he urged all parents to have their children's immunity updated.

Since March two diphtheria deaths and five other diphtheria infections have been recorded in Vancouver. Deaths have been reported in other Canadian communities.

BEGIN NOW

Dr. Bonham urged parents to begin immunization of all non-immunized children, either by contacting their doctor or at the nearest health department clinic.

Persons over the age of 15 are not urged to seek immunization, he said.

The two Vancouver victims were Mrs. Doris May Lister, 40, who died June 7 and Robert Mills, 10, who died June 25.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A sister of five-year-old Barbara Iles, who died Monday of diphtheria, today was identified as having been a carrier of the disease.

Dr. J. I. Jeffs, London's assistant medical officer of health, said the girl, who was not named, has been treated along with other members of the family, and now is "safe."

Dr. Jeffs said the current diphtheria problem will be over Saturday if there are no new outbreaks. The incubation period for the diphtheria bacteria will be over by then and "we will have reached the safety stage," he said.

Union Vote Restores Five Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five Prince George pulp workers who were dismissed three months ago when they held office in two local unions will get their jobs back as a result of a jurisdictional vote won Wednesday by the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada Union.

The Prince George Pulp and Paper Ltd. and Inter-Continental Pulp and B.C. Chemicals Ltd. plants favored the PPWC over the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers 244 to 128. There were 63 abstentions.

The five workers were Len Shankel, George Smith, Mickey Finnigan, Gerry Richardson and Noel Noble.

Wouldn't a hotel or motel have been nicer?

Next time phone ahead and make sure!

When you've settled the wife and children down inside the car, there are worse places for yourself to sleep than in the trunk, with the spare tire for a pillow. But not many! Hotel or motel beds would have been much nicer — and Harry could have had them for a low-cost long distance call to his next stopover point. If you enjoy roughing it on long drives away from home, by-all means save money on phoning. But if you prefer a sound night's slumber to the "No Vacancy" signs, spend a few dimes calling ahead . . . just to make sure!

Vandals Strike

Vandals tore out shrubs and destroyed flowers in Bastion Square and Trowace Alley and damaged planters at Fort and Government early Thursday morning.

Herb Warren, parks superintendent, said the time of the destruction was narrow to one hour between 3:15 and 4:15 a.m. Bedding plants and shrubs were ripped from planters and thrown about Trowace Alley. Flowers in hanging baskets were torn out, including a tuberosa crocusa prized by the merchants.

BENEFITLESS

Last year the merchants refurbished the alley at a cost of $10,000.

Senseless damage in Bastion Square included uprooted flowers and an attempt to break off two trees at the trunk.

"The trees were too tough for them," Mr. Warren said. "but they did damage them. There's a 50-50 chance they will survive. They tore all the flowers out of several flower beds."

He said damage in the square amounted to about $200.

For Union Official

Jail Treatment 'Medieval'

Treatment of a union official in Mount Thornton prison camp was likened to medieval penitence by Vancouver lawyer Harry Rankin.

He referred to United Fisherman and Allied Workers' union Secretary, Homer Stevens, serving a one-year sentence in the mainland prison camp for contempt of court.

Mr. Rankin visited Mr. Stevens Thursday as a result of a situation developing from Mr. Stevens having tried to help a fellow prisoner.

HELP OFFERED

Mr. Rankin said his information about the situation was that Mr. Stevens interceded on behalf of a fellow prisoner, to expedite placement of a telephone call.

The unnamed prisoner was informed his wife was hurt in a fall, but when he made a collect call to his home, "naturally there was no one home," said Mr. Rankin.

The prisoner placed other calls, but no one would accept the collect charges.

Mr. Stevens' intercession by offering to pay for the calls was termed interference with prison discipline; he was brought up on that charge; pleaded not guilty but was told he had already pleaded guilty in a preliminary hearing and could not change his plea, and thereupon he was sentenced to loss of 15 days' remission from his sentence for having violated regulations.

Manila Officials Warn of Plague

MANILA (Reuters) — Bacterial plague and severe crop damage threaten the Philippines in the face of a massive rat infestation throughout the country, health and agriculture officials said.

"This was a breach of discipline — so-called," said Mr. Rankin.

"As I understand it, a padre finally accepted the telephone call, but Stevens was guilty of having raised this issue with them."

"Obviously this is way out of line — out of all proportion," he said.

"This sack of Jean Valjean, Victor Hugo's hero in Les Misérables, who got sentenced to the galleys for stealing a loaf of bread."

ONE SIDE

Mr. Rankin said he had still heard only one side of the situation, and he would continue to investigate.

Meanwhile, in another part of the prison, union president Steve Stevens, serving the same sentence for the same offence, is suffering from an ear infection, said Mr. Rankin.

One-Third Found No Jobs

War Baby Boom Hits Labor Scene

OTTAWA (CP) — More than one-third of the students who entered the job market for the school year this spring were unable to find jobs by the third week of June.

This was the main factor in sending Canada's unemployment rate to an unusually high 4.8 per cent of the labor force. Taking seasonal factors into account, it was a post-1963 record of 5.5 per cent.

JOB PICTURE

The employment picture last month, in brief, was this:

287,000 workers joined the labor force, bringing the total to 8,153,000. Of the new workers, an estimated 204,000 were teenagers.

252,000 workers found jobs, bringing the total employed to 7,763,000. Of the new job-holders, 130,000 were teenagers.

323,000 people were added to the number of unemployed, totalling 355,000. Of the new school leavers, the council said, 74,000 did not find jobs, but the number of jobless aged 20 and older declined by 65,000.

Unemployment usually declines in June. In the past five years, it has dropped by an average of 18,000. But this year it rose with a larger-than-usual number of young people leaving school to work, or seek work mainly.

The Economic Council of Canada warned in 1964, in its first economic review, that Canada would face unprecedented growth of the labor force in the latter part of the 1960s and into the early 1970s.

"The impact of the early post-war 'baby boom' has been modified and delayed during the last few years by the tendency of young people to stay in school longer," the council said.

"But this has only acted as a temporary brake. Now the full force of the wave is starting to be felt in the labor force as the leading edge of this wave pushes up through the age structure of the population."

The number of unemployed in the 14-to-19 age group rose in June to 153,000 from 79,000 in May, while the number aged 20 to 64 declined to 235,000 from 278,000.

The figures are based on a survey of 35,000 families conducted by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics during the week ended June 22. The figures were analysed by the manpower department and made public Thursday as a joint report.

FAR MORE

It showed that since the May survey, the number of persons without jobs for less than a month when the survey was taken rose to 104,000 from 119,000.

The total number of unemployed as a percentage of the total labor force usually declines during April, May, June and July. This year it rose to 4.8 per cent from 4.6 in May.

But when the new figures are adjusted for the normal seasonal factors that affect employment and unemployment, the unemployment rate for June rose to 5.5 per cent. This is the highest seasonally-adjusted rate for any month since June, 1963, when it was 5.6 per cent.

Job-Boosters Vital

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada must become an exporter as well as an importer of sophisticated machines and devices being used to supplement the labor of mankind, Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Thursday.

Mr. Davis was speaking at a one-day seminar on Pacific trade, sponsored by the Vancouver Sea Festival, board of trade and University of B.C. He said the greatest growth in trade had taken place among the more highly industrialized countries. The greatest potential for increased trade is in manufactured goods.

How to process your UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE claims and benefit payments during postal service interruption

If you have a claim to be processed or a bi-weekly declaration to deposit during the postal service interruption, please follow these instructions:

1. Do not put your claim or declaration or any material in a post box.
2. Take your claim or declaration to the Unemployment Insurance office nearest you. Or go to the Temporary Service Centre nearest you. In many areas, these Temporary Service Centres are located in Canada Manpower Centres.
3. Bring proper identification with you, such as your Social Insurance card or Unemployment Insurance book.

VANCOUVER CLAIMANTS

If you are in receipt of an unemployment insurance bi-weekly declaration form, it is necessary that you deposit it at the UIC office at 1145 Robson St. on the Saturday, Sunday or Monday when it is due. Make sure that the form is properly completed before you deposit it. Do not mail them.

Benefit cheques may be picked up on the Saturday morning (between 8:00 a.m. and 1 p.m.) following the deposit of your bi-weekly report.

General enquiries and phone calls will be handled on week days only.

NEW WESTMINSTER CLAIMANTS

Bi-weekly declaration forms may be deposited at the UIC office at 60-8th St. in the same manner.

Benefit cheques may be picked up on Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to 3:45 p.m.

Benefit cheques for Abbotsford and Chilliwack claimants may be picked up at the Temporary Service Centres (see below) on Fridays only from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Please follow these procedures while postal service is interrupted. With your co-operation, the Unemployment Insurance Commission will do all it can to maintain good service and handle claims in a normal manner.

Twins' Rick Renick leaps high over sliding Mike Andrews

Triple Batting Crown Could Stay in Boston

Boston Red Sox probably won't repeat as champions of the American Baseball League this season but they could have their second consecutive triple-crown winner.

No, not the defender, Carl Yastrzemski, but the Hawk—Ken Harrelson, who came to Boston as a free agent after being released by Kansas City last year. Yastrzemski, who won the batting crown with a .326 average, led in runs-batted-in with 121 and tied with Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew for the home run lead with 44, is well up in the batting department but trails in home runs and runs batted in this season.

CLOSE TO TOP
He is also out of action currently with a strained wrist ligament, which caused him to miss his first game of the season on Tuesday.

But Harrelson, who batted .255 with 12 home runs and 54 runs batted in while splitting 110 games in 1967 between Kansas City, Washington and the Red Sox, is near the top in every department.

Going into Thursday's action he was batting .358, not impressive perhaps, but in this season it is good enough to be just two points behind Oakland's Rick Monday, the league's only .300 hitter, and then only just so at .300.

He leads Washington's Frank Howard in the run-producing department, having already passed his previous best season of 66 runs batted in, and Thursday hit his 20th home run, putting him six behind Howard.

STILL THEY LOSE

However, like much of Boston's fortune this year, the blow didn't provide a victory as the Red Sox dropped a 7-3 decision to the Minnesota Twins.

Ted Uhlander's two-run double sparked the Twins' five-run outburst in the sixth inning while Dave Boswell evened his record at 8-8 with the win, scattering nine hits and pitching his way out of frequent jams.

It wasn't a completely good day for the Twins, however. Boswell was carried after tagging Russ Nixon at home plate for the final out of the game and is expected to be out for a week to 10 days with a sprained back.

At Oakland, Earl Wilson roused the slumping league leaders with a six-hitter as Detroit Tigers padded their margin over idle Cleveland Indians with a 3-1 victory over the Athletics.

Wilson, who struck out five and didn't walk a batter, lost his shutout bid in the eighth inning when Ramon Webster scored on an infield out.

ORIOLES MISS CHANCE
It was only the third win for the Tigers in eight games since the all-star break.

Baltimore Orioles lost their chance to regain sole possession of second place and fell back into third place when Chicago White Sox scored two runs in the first inning on singles by Pete Ward and Leon Wagner and then held on for a 2-1 victory.

In the other game, a tie-breaking single by Horace Clarke followed by Roy White's two-run homer gave New York Yankees a 4-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

In the National League, Juan Marichal won his 17th game of the season with a four-hitter to lead the St. Louis Cardinals' win streak at six games as San Francisco Giants took a 3-0 victory.

He retired 17 batters in a row until Lou Brock singled to open the ninth inning.

Tom Seaver also pitched a 3-0 shutout for New York Mets, limiting the Pirates to six hits at Pittsburgh while Pat Jarvis pitched a two-hitter and Tommie Aaron drove in four runs as Atlanta Braves downed Houston Astros, 7-1.

Los Angeles at Cincinnati was rained out.

Pads Lead

Bigelow Lengthens Senior Golf Lead

SASKATOON (CP) — Dr. George Bigelow of Victoria again fired the best round of the day Thursday to widen his leading margin in the Canadian Senior Golf Championship.

Bigelow, the defending champion, added a 75 to his first round 73, over the par-up Riverside Country Club, for a three-stroke margin going into today's final round.

The 54-hole event is restricted to competitors 55 years of age and over.

Holding second spot is Phil Farley of Toronto. He fired a 76 Thursday for a 36-hole total of 150. George Hevenor, also of Toronto, a three-time winner of the event, added a 78 to his opening 73 and slipped into third position.

Three men hold fourth spot, one stroke back. Alex Folk, a member of the host club, fired his second straight 76 while Ernie Brown of Vancouver, a former professional and now a golf architect, added a 78 to his first round 74 and Sandy Somerville of London, Ont., a former U.S. Amateur champ, matched Brown's rounds.

An early favorite, Jack Nash of London, Ont., was one of the few contenders who improved with their second rounds as he topped a 78 to his opening 78 for 154. He tied Romeo Trudeau of Montreal who had rounds of 77 both days.

Age group titles are also up for grabs and Bigelow retained his lead in the A group for golfers 55 to 59. His 147 total is three ahead of Farley and five up on Brown and Folk.

Hevenor also held on to his lead in the B group for ages 60 to 64. His two-day total of 151 is three better than Trudeau, while Hugh Burdick of Toronto is third at 156.

Somerville, a spry 67, widened his margin at the head of the C group for those 65 to 69. Second to his 153 is Ralph Ormond of Calgary, at 160 while Art Johnson of Vancouver is third at 172.

Bill Riddell of Victoria added a 55 to his opening 91 for 186 while Kenneth Alexander of Nanaimo improved from 91 to 90 for 181.

Ontario extended its leading margin in the inter-provincial team event.

The four top scores from each province are used and the Ontario team of Somerville, Farley, Hevenor and either Anderson or Gibson has a 36-hole total of 606.

Second at 613 is British Columbia and Alberta moved into third with 638. Saskatchewan dropped after the first round from third position to fourth with 635.

Bill Rigney May Return To Giants

CINCINNATI (LAT) — Bill Rigney will resign as manager of California Angels at the end of this season and return to San Francisco to manage the Giants, a responsible source told the Los Angeles Times Thursday.

The Giants' present manager, Herman Franks, has notified his club that he will retire after the 1968 season, a source close to the Giant organization disclosed.

Stallings bowed, 6-2 6-2, to third-seeded Jim Boyce of Toronto while Page was upset, 8-6 6-3, by seventh-seeded Scott Dunlop of Ottawa.

The survivors after completion of four rounds were seeded Jim Ebbitt of West-mount, Que., fourth-rated Bill McDermott of Toronto, Boyce and Dunlop.

Fifth-seeded Bill Shakespeare of Halifax and eighth-ranked Paul Jacoby of Regina were others eliminated.

Stallings had advanced to the fourth round with a win over Pat Gamery of Toronto, 6-4 6-2.

In the under-14 boys singles, Steven Kenny of Victoria defeated Tom Wilson of Vancouver, 6-3 6-4, in the second round but lost to Kestie Killas of Vancouver, 6-3 and 6-2.

OTHER VICTORIANS
Greg Kenny of Victoria scored a 6-2 6-2 win over David McGregor of Vancouver in the under 12 group while Lindy Kenny, also of Victoria, defeated Judy Miles of Vancouver, 6-0 6-0, in the under-12 girls class.

Ebbitt plays McDonnell and Boyce goes against Dunlop in today's semi-finals with the winners to meet Saturday for the title.

Ladies Event At Victoria

Helen Mooney shot a net 69 Wednesday to capture "A" division honors by three strokes over Muriel Osborough in a ladies medal and pin competition at Victoria Golf Club.

Elizabeth McPherson won the "B" honors with a net 76, two strokes ahead of runners-up Alleen Wintemute, Beryl Keyes and Frances McCall.

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens, down, 5-3, after the first period, fought to a 14-9 victory over three New Westminster, B.C., Salmonbellies in an interlocking National Lacrosse Association game Thursday night.

It was the fourth game in five days for New Westminster.

Jim Richardson and Wayne Thompson paced Montreal with three goals each and two assists while Ken Thompson and Terry Davis got two apiece. Singles went to John Dale, Michel Blanchard, Brian Aherm and Ken Crawford.

For the Salmonbellies, Wayne Goss and Paul Parnell turned in two-goal performances. The other goals were scored by John Shymr, Dave Tury, Ken Winowski, Ed Goss and Al Lewewath.

A crowd of about 1,000 watched the game in 80-degree weather at the east-end Paul Savee Arena.

Colony Inn yielded two runs to Carlings in the first inning but pitcher Carl Walker scored with two out in the bottom of the final inning to give the molten a 3-2 victory, ending Carlings' hopes of picking up their second win of the season.

Walker, who issued a two-run homer to Norm Curran, drove in the tying run with a single.

Tonight's battle for second place between Red Lion Inn and Molsons is also "Fan Appreciation Night" with approximately 40 door prizes being given away.

On Saturday at 6:45 p.m., members of the league's executive, umpires and press will meet the Molsons Victories of the Lower Island Women's Softball League in a game to raise funds for the girls' playoffs.

PORT ALBERNI — Bill Russell, tied with two other players for the scoring lead in the Vancouver Island Lacrosse League two days ago, took a 13-point lead Thursday as he paced the leading Nanaimo Luckies to a 16-10 victory over Port Alberni Barclays.

Russell, who picked up six points in the Luckies' 16-4 victory over Nanaimo O'Keefes on Wednesday, scored four goals and five assists against Barclays.

Port Alberni's Brian Van Horne, who was one of the players tied with Russell, was held to two assists.

Luckies, ahead 4-0 after the first period, were outscored, 3-4, in the second period but came on strongly in the next 15 minutes to take a 12-4 lead into the final period.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chairman Ken Mackler of the North American Soccer League said Thursday 1968 attendance has passed 1,000,000 "and we are encouraged by its steady increase this season."

Cosmo Royals Enter Final
Cosmo Royals advanced to the final of the Connie Mack Baseball League double-knockout playoffs Thursday by defeating Tillamook Athletics, 5-1, at Windsor Park.

Rick Owens pitched a three-hitter while striking out 13 batters and issuing only two walks for the winners.

Carling Threat Fails Big Things Planned

THE VICTORIA SENIOR MEN'S Open Softball League is planning two special days today and Saturday but lowly Carlings tried to have a special day for themselves on Thursday at Central Park.

They didn't quite make it, however.

Colony Inn yielded two runs to Carlings in the first inning but pitcher Carl Walker scored with two out in the bottom of the final inning to give the molten a 3-2 victory, ending Carlings' hopes of picking up their second win of the season.

Walker, who issued a two-run homer to Norm Curran, drove in the tying run with a single.

Tonight's battle for second place between Red Lion Inn and Molsons is also "Fan Appreciation Night" with approximately 40 door prizes being given away.

On Saturday at 6:45 p.m., members of the league's executive, umpires and press will meet the Molsons Victories of the Lower Island Women's Softball League in a game to raise funds for the girls' playoffs.

Kickers Dominate Scoring As Roughies Top Alouettes

REGDA (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders edged Montreal Alouettes, 16-14, Thursday night in a wide open Canadian Football League exhibition game before 12,728 fans.

The teams were deadlocked 10-10 at half time but Riders edged ahead 13-11 at the end of the third quarter and the teams traded field goals in the last quarter.

Fullback Bill Goods kicked three field goals and converted a touchdown by halfback Alan Ford to account for 10 of the Riders' points.

His opposite number for the Alouettes, defensive end Jim Long, booted two field goals, a single and a convert in a kicking contest. Mickey Sutton scored the Montreal touchdown on a pass from Carroll Williams from the Rider 12-yard line.

There was a lot of scrambling in the game as both teams used two quarterbacks. Ron Lancaster and Rick Cassata divided the chore for Saskatchewan and Max Chobolan spelled off Williams for Montreal.

There was little to choose between the teams offensively as Montreal gained 128 yards on the ground to Saskatchewan's 287 and the Alouettes had the edge in passing yardage, 214 to 189.

The Montreal passing attack was more consistent as the Alouette quarterbacks completed 16 of 39 attempts while the Roughies were good on only six of 30.

Toronto broke a 13-13 halftime tie, moving ahead 27-24 in the third quarter and added eight more points in the last quarter.

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts, led by fullback Jim Dillard and kicker Dave Mann, defeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats, 35-23, Thursday night in an Eastern Football Conference exhibition game before 22,023 fans.

Dillard scored two touchdowns while Mann kicked two field goals, converted all four Toronto touchdowns and booted a 70-yard single.

Tom Wilkinson, who alternated at quarterback with Wally Gahler and George Wilson, and Bobby Taylor scored the other Toronto touchdowns.

Place kicker Tommy Joe Coffey collected 11 points for the Ticks on a touchdown, a field goal and two converts. Willie Bethea and Bob Richardson got the other Hamilton touchdowns.

Toronto overwhelmed the Ticks along the ground, rolling up 203 yards compared to Hamilton's 61, while Toronto's three-quarterback's gained 332 yards passing. The Hamilton quarterbacks — Joe Zager and Bill Reidell — gained 276 yards in the air.

Toronto broke a 13-13 halftime tie, moving ahead 27-24 in the third quarter and added eight more points in the last quarter.

with Alec Merriman

Cowichan Bay continues to be the hot fishing spot on Vancouver Island with an unusually early run of feeding coho up to 7½ pounds providing sports on grey and white, coronation and green and white bucktail flies trolled on the surface.

Best bite has been between 5:30 and 7:30 in the mornings and again between 9:30 and 10:15 in the evenings but fish have been taking all day. The coho have been mainly concentrated in the centre of the bay, out from the boathouse, and anglers have been fishing bucktails with no weight along the edges of the weedlines. When in weed, they use a half ounce of weight.

Tuesday morning, Brian Ferguson took Jim Garrett and two anglers from Okanagan out bucktailing and returned to the boathouse before 9 a.m. with 11 fish, six taken on double-headed.

The spring salmon are not around in as big numbers as they were, but moochers are getting them up to 32 pounds against the wall on the far side of the bay.

Percy Hufington of Millington, Yorkshire, and his son, Paul, of Edmonton, were among the lucky anglers hitting limits of coho on bucktail.

Coho fishing is picking up quickly in other widely scattered parts of the Island.

From Comox come reports of a new run of coho taking bucktail flies off the Bell Buoy and Comox Bar. Good fishing is reported from Little River to Metchinatch Island.

Qualicum Beach coho fishing is picking up with a good run right off the main promenade and along to the claybanks.

Coho fishing for five and six-pounders is reported good off the Five Fingers and Snake Island waters near Nanaimo and from the brickyards towards Nanaimo. Green and white Flash-tails, Pearly spoons and Ripple spoons have been taking them.

Gerry Bickerton, who has just started a charter fishing service operating out of Richardson's Marina at Nanaimo, has had good fishing all season—only one slunk in three dozen trips.

Strip-casters are also picking up the odd big spring in Nanaimo waters. Dr. Nori Nishio was among the successful with a 31-pounder in Hammond Bay Wednesday.

May Hall reports a fresh run of springs in the six to 12-pound bracket in Finlayson Arm along with some coho fishing. Elsewhere in the Inlet, the Bannockburn shoreline and Patricia Bay have been the better spots for jacksprings and the odd coho.

A fresh run of heavy springs hit Trial Island waters Wednesday afternoon with David Pedersen boating a 11.4 and a 14.5-pounder, and Gary Sedhouse bringing in 16.12, 16.8 and 8.8-pounders. Thursday morning, Harry Southin limited in half an hour off Trial Island with springs in the 18 and 19-pound range. The gap off Oak Bay has also been producing a few springs.

Effort has been light off Victoria, but Pedder Bay fishing picked up mid-week for good-sized springs, jacksprings and some coho. Average has been about a fish a boat.

Becher Bay fishing fell off a little. Otter Point fishing has been far from good this year, but there are a few big fish being taken such as the 34-pounder landed Tuesday.

Campbell River fishing is still fair and most boats are picking up a couple of fish. They seem to be moving fish, although Butler's Point and the outer help have been fairly consistent spots. Some good fishing has been had in the Willow Point-Oyster Bay waters.

Ladysmith, Test Island and Coffin Point have been good for coho on light green Flash-tails and Super Strip-Traser has been picking up coho in the Active Pass area, with regular Strip Traser taking springs.

Now is the time for fly fishing at night for those big browns in the Cowichan River.

Bass fishing is reported good in most lakes with popper lures and worms. Cutthroat fishing has been fair on the trail in Horne Lake. Cowichan Lake is still producing well, especially at creek mouths. Little Qualicum, Big Qualicum, Puntledge and Oyster Rivers are all reported fair for cutthroats on the fly and with bait.

Cham diggers are warned that red tide has appeared in some areas. They should not take clams from the upper Gulf Islands area around Nanaimo at False Narrows, Dodds Narrows and Ruxton Pass, or from the Cape Mudge area at Campbell River. The Pedder Harbor area on the mainland is also a danger area.

Sailors Win National Finals Berth

Zone I of the Canadian Armed Forces will be represented by the Ships of the Maritime Command Pacific in the national services softball championships in Winnipeg, Aug. 31 to 33.

The sailors downed Canadian Forces Base Comox, 2-1, with Bob Harris and Don Bota sharing the pitching 1-0-4, Thursday at CFB Esquimalt to take the two-day double-knockout tournament.

Wally Becking was the losing pitcher.

Also competing were CFB Esquimalt, CFB Holberg, CFB Chilliwack and the Nanaimo communications station.

Hosts Win Away From Ruth Title

Saanich Evening Optimists, the host club, are just one victory away from the B.C. Babe Ruth Baseball 13-year-old championship.

The Optimists came from behind twice Thursday to drop Fraserview from the unbeaten ranks in the double-knockout tournament at Reynolds Park, 3-2.

Somewhat jittery, the Saanich club yielded an unearned run in the first inning, tied the game on an unearned run in the second but fell behind to an unearned run in the third.

Net 72 Wins Medal Round

Marg Humber topped the "A" division of the Uplands Golf Club ladies medal and pin round Wednesday with a net 72.

Mavis Young and Vivian Ball tied for "B" division honors with 74 while Dorothy Austin captured the "C" pin with a net 73.

June Lovitt won the D. F. Johnston Cup over runner-up Joan Gillan in another competition.

Transports Win In Final Inning

Transports won the final game of the league today, 3-2, over Independents at Tipax Park.

Art Worth came on in the first inning for the league-leading Transports after Independents had scored without the benefit of a hit, and blanked the losers on three hits.

John McKeechie, who singled and advanced to third base on two sacrifices in the third inning, tied the game when he scored on a passed ball.

Independents cut down manager Mike McAvoy at the plate in the seventh inning when he tried to score on George Fuller's short fly to second baseman Bob Patton but Burrows went to third on the play and Butcher followed with his hit.

The winner was Gresham School of Norfolk with 318 points out of a possible 580.

Top among the Canadian cadets were Sgt. J. W. Garnett of Oromocto, N.B., and Maj. A. Maitland of Chicoutimi, Que., both with 65.

Capt. G. T. Giles of McGregor, Alta., and Lieut. R. S. Martin of Nelson, B.C., followed with 64 points each.

G. R. Allen of Victoria and Maj. C. A. Jones of Oakville, Ont., each scored 62 while WO2 P. D. Giesbrecht of Winnipeg had 58.

Papp, rounding out the Canadian eight, ended up with 60.

Marty Fleckman Takes Lead In Sweat and Swear Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Tour rookie Marty Fleckman took a tip from sage Byron Nelson and fired a four-under-par 66 Thursday for a two-stroke lead in the opening round of the 50th PGA Golf championship.

"Byron told me you've got to play the par 3s and the par 5s if you hope to do any good," the 24-year-old youngster from Port Arthur, Tex., said.

"I birdied three of the four par 3s, and that's what did it," Fleckman, who as an amateur led the U.S. Open in 1967 through three rounds and who made golf history by winning his first tournament as a pro, birdied the second hole, chipping in from the rough, and added birdies at the 12th and 18th holes on putts of 12 and seven feet.

He had only 26 putts—10 below par—for the phenomenal round.

The 66, one over the course record, gave him a two-stroke lead over Frank Beard, who putted well for a 68 despite one-over-par on the last two holes.

THREE BREAK PAR

Only three other players in the bulky field of 187 managed to crack the 70 par of the 7,096-yard course, which sweltered in 95-degree heat.

They were Lee Trevino, winner of the U.S. Open in June; Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., and Don Bies, 30-year-old assistant pro from Seattle who always seems to play his best in the PGA. All fired 68.

This 50th tournament for America's professionals, both tournament and teaching variety, was quickly dubbed the "Sweat and Swear Open."

Searing heat sent rivulets of water down the competitors and the gallery of 12,350. Swearing came in contestants' protests over the knotty wire-like rough and the peculiar architecture of the course which forced the big hitters to throttle some shots.

On at least half a dozen holes—the 18th being the prime and most castigated example—players had to lay up off the tee to avoid meandering Siado Creek or some other hazard.

SEVEN HIT PAR

"It's ridiculous," said Arnold Palmer.

Jack Nicklaus is the only player I know who can go over the creek, and he would need a carry of 270 yards.

Nicklaus and Palmer each shot 71, a respectable score, and were tied with more than a half-dozen other blue ribbon performers including former Masters winner Gay Brewer.

There were seven tied at par 70. They included former PGA champion Al Gelberger, Dan Sikes, Charles Coody, Miller Barber, Johnny Pott, Frank Barber and Laurie Hammer.

Canadian Cadet Top Sniper But Ineligible for Trophy

RISLEY, England (CP)—Montreal cadet Cameron Papp outshot all the schoolboy marksmen at the annual Commonwealth competition Thursday but didn't win any trophy.

Canada's army cadet team was not eligible to try for the Spencer-Burnell Tankard for competition among Commonwealth schools but was permitted to put in one member, as an "honorary" entrant. German-born Emerich, 17, was chosen.

BRITONS SECOND

He wound up scoring 49 out of a possible 50 with the .303 cadet-issue rifle at 500 yards. Two young Britons chased him with 48.

Thursday provided the first action for the cadets since the Bisle meet opened Monday. Today they will go into competition against a British team in their big event, the Alexander Graham Bell Trophy, which they won in 1966 but dropped last year.

Reagan Foes
'Threatened'

LOS ANGELES—The leader of the drive to recall Governor Ronald Reagan said his workers are being threatened, intimidated and, in one case, physically attacked, but said "we're going to make it in spite of this."

He said the state recall headquarters in Orangevale had swastikas painted on the windows along with the words: "Communist Jews, get out."

Two windows were broken at the Encino (a Los Angeles suburb) headquarters, Kouspal said. A man operating the Recall Reagan booth at the Orange County fair was beaten and some positions were destroyed.

LONDON — Lester Pearson has been elected president of the Institute for Strategic Studies, a London-based defence and disarmament research centre.

LOS ANGELES — Musical arranger Ray Conniff, 52, was divorced by Mrs. Ann Marie Conniff, 55, who testified that he frequently went off to bed while she had a household of guests to entertain.

MONTREAL — Sergei Tchotchibovsky, a commercial counsel with the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, says he expects a Canadian delegation will visit Moscow to discuss a possible Canadian wheat sale.

OTTAWA — Joseph Cardinal Slips, leader of the Ukrainian Catholic Church who spent 12 years in Communist prison camps for refusing to cooperate with Stalin's ideas on religion, received an honorary doctorate at St. Paul University.

TORONTO — Floyd Chalmers, 69, chairman of Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co. Ltd. and once a student rebel, has been appointed chancellor of York University. He succeeds Air Marshal Wilfred Curtis, the first chancellor, since 1961.

KNOX, Belgium — Corneille Heymans, who won the Nobel Prize for medicine 30 years ago for his work on the respiratory and blood systems, died at 76.

MIAMI, Fla. — Oran Richards, former mental patient who seized temporary command of a Delta Air Lines plane July 12 while babbling that he was dying of cancer, was bound over to a federal grand jury on charges of kidnapping and air piracy.

BOTWOOD, Nfld. — Governor General Michener and his secretary Edmund Butler returned to the destroyer Assiniboine with about 30 fish after a day's rest at remote Lake Kaigudek in interior Newfoundland.

Traffic Near Crisis

Planes Pile Up
At, Over Fields

By United Press International

In New York, a score of jetliners stood motionless for more than an hour along the edge of a runway at Kennedy International Airport, stretching down a mile alongside Jamaica Bay, waiting for clearance to take off.

At Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, arriving airplanes circled overhead for as much as 40 minutes awaiting their turn to land.

In San Francisco, takeoffs and landings were on schedule at International Airport but delays occur occasionally during peak arrival and departure periods at 9 a.m., 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

"Air traffic has definitely reached crisis stage, both on the ground and in the air," said Frank Puglisi, northeast public affairs officer for the Federal Aviation Administration.

Puglisi said delays Thursday at Kennedy, La Guardia and Newark airports in the New York City area were averaging 30 to 45 minutes as a result of congestion stemming from the burgeoning air industry. The only answer, he said, was a fourth airport for the New York metropolitan area.

On the ground in the New York airport terminals, relatives and friends waiting for passengers arriving on the delayed flights, waited in the heat. Table space in terminal restaurants was scarce and parking lots were jammed.

Harold Lufkin, assistant chief controller at the FAA air traffic control centre in Aurora, Ill., said the delays were not at all unusual and were "due entirely to the exceptional number of planes" in the air.

Mind Excursion Centre
Shocks Young Children

MONTREAL (CP) — Children screamed and cried in a nightmare of mirrors, flashing lights and booming music as Montreal's Mind Excursion Centre—"total environment for sensual appreciation"—opened to the public Thursday.

Teenagers who wandered through a series of 11 rooms in a converted downtown button factory reacted with a simple: "Is that all there was to it?"

The children, about 20 four- and five-year-olds from local orphanages, became near-hysterical as they entered the first room, the Mirror Maze.

They shouted, yelled, clutched one another and cried as two nuns and three young women accompanying them tried to pacify them by repeating: "There is no danger. It's just for pre-tending."

Their visit to the "21st century fun house" lasted only about three minutes and then they were all hustled back outside, still shaken by their experience in the dark, winding corridors within the entrance to the centre.

Teenagers and some adults went the full round of the 11 rooms. They were requested to take off their shoes for maximum effect and don yellow fluorescent socks before entering.

The rooms, some "other-worldish" and others pulsating to the sound of electronic music, flashes of rainbow colors, piles of snow-like confetti and stroboscopic lights, are linked by twisting corridors.

Guests included Dr. S. J. Shamsie, head of the children's psychiatric ward at Douglas Hospital in suburban Verdun.

He said later: "The frequency of flashing lights might cause epileptic people to have fits."

Naughty Nude Out

EDMONTON (CP) — The forces of Alderman Julia Kiniski have covered up a naughty painting in Sun's Saloon, set up outside city hall for Klondike Days, the city's annual summer festival.

The 11-by-36-inch painting was of a nude woman.

"She's completely nude," said Ald. Kiniski. "There's a cash register beside her and a bottle of liquor and cigars. What do you take from that?"

"A thing like that is not to be exposed in a place like city hall. It's a disgrace."

The painting was there last year "and I told them not to use it any more. Then yesterday my phone started ringing with people complaining. I think it's hideous."

"I told the mayor to either remove it or do something or I was going to tear it off myself."

The painting got a quick cover-up painting Wednesday on instructions from the mayor but it looked like a cross between a bathing suit and old style underwear.

Thursday morning the painting was covered by a tarpaulin.

It's Just Coincidence, He Says

Whip-In Target Going Away

By DON COLLINS
Has the youth movement got Al. Baird on the run?
Not a chance, city council harasser of hipsters said Thursday.

It is strictly a coincidence that he will be thousands of miles away Aug. 21 when a special "Whip-In" is held in his name at Centennial Square.

"I'll be in Scotland," Al. Baird said. "I made plans for the trip six months ago, long before I heard about the whip-in."

His comments followed a legislative and finance committee meeting, where it was agreed the city should throw $50 to Youth Week — a sort of "not square" conference of youth in Victoria Aug. 18-25.

The whip-in, more formally the Robert Baird Memorial "Whip Festival," has been planned for some time by the Victoria Youth Council and is not related to Youth Week activities.

It is considered a memorial to a statement made about whips and hipsters some time ago by the alderman.

He had said he could not order policemen into the Centennial Square with whips to remove the young people.

At the festival, young people are to parade about the square brandishing what they consider to be living whips. The whips will be judged later.

WARNING GIVEN
Ald. Baird, chairman of the legislative and finance committee, agreed to the $50 donation to Youth Week, but not without a warning.

He was concerned with the fact that among the bodies contributing to the conference are the Radical Action co-ordinating committee, the Peace Action League and people

Alberta Bills Still Coming In

Bills are still coming to Victoria businessmen from the Police Safety Guide in Edmonton, although they won't be for the duration of the postal strike.

The Victoria police department reiterated Thursday that it has no connection with the magazine.

The bills received here are for advertising in the magazine. Businessmen concerned have said they did not order or authorize any such advertising. The police department advised them to ignore the bills.

They are blue and come from PO Box 483, Edmonton.

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec cultural affairs department has bought a $4,500 collection of documents which were on display in the French pavilion's museum of literature at Expo 67.

More Than 600 Enrol In Summer Happening

Response to the Greater Victoria school board's Summer Happening has been very good, program co-ordinator Jackson Kemper said Thursday.

More than 600 have registered in the 40-course program which began Monday and will run until Aug. 2.

Silver Lining For Sunshine

SEATTLE (AP) — Sunshine Mining Co. announced Thursday the discovery of a rich body of silver ore in North Idaho and at the same time estimated earnings for the first half of the year would be triple those of 1967.

President Thomas McManus told a special shareholders' meeting 180,000 tons of ore assaying 60 to 126 ounces a ton have been blocked out in the company's Hook-Chester vein in the Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, mining district.

He said the discovery was made last weekend.

Sunshine rose sharply on the New York Stock Exchange as news of the find leaked out, closing at $38.50 a share, up $1.50.

Warm, But Welcome

TORONTO (CP) — In some drinking spots the bottled beer was warm and beer by the glass was not available, but it didn't particularly bother many Ontario drinkers who had suffered through hot, muggy weather for days without a brew.

Ontario's 27-day beer strike officially ended Thursday morning and a few hours later Brewery Retail stores and beverage rooms opened for business.

The stores had been closed since a June 21 strike at a Molson's Brewery Ltd. plant in Toronto sparked an industry-wide lockout and most pubs and taverns ran out of draught beer within a few days.

Dream Up in Smoke

Taylors and lake sometimes obscured

Refuse Dumps Turn Haven Into Flytrap

By JOHN MATTERS

Fourteen years ago, Dr. and Mrs. T. M. C. Taylor of Vancouver bought a homestead in the Highlands district north of Langford, looking forward to the day when they could permanently enjoy its tranquility and isolation.

The day they were awaiting arrived this spring and they moved here from Vancouver to find their hideaway almost obscured in clouds of noxious smoke from the refuse that is burned in two nearby garbage dumps.

"This is the most iniquitous thing I have seen," the former head of the University of British Columbia's botany department said Wednesday.

night. "Burning of that material is banned in Victoria, so they truck it out here and burn it over our heads."

Because their Millstream Road property is in provincial territory, administered by the provincial government, Dr. Taylor has written Health Minister Ralph Lofmark about the mess.

In addition to the nauseating odor of the smoke, the garbage trucks often drop some of their cargo on the roadside, which takes a call to the highway department to get cleaned up.

The garbage dumps also are producing flies.

"We cannot have our windows open for a minute without having the house filled," said Mrs. Taylor. "During the recent hot spell, it was dreadful. We have to buy screens for our whole house."

Earlier this summer, the Association of Women Electors admonished municipal authorities for using the Millstream Road dumps. The organization said the practice could produce health hazards.

When the smoke is at its worst, the Taylors cannot see Teenup Lake, which is 30 feet from their home.

"Some nights I can hardly sleep wondering whether the huge pieces of burning ash which we often see flying over the lake and the woods have landed on the house or in the trees and are smoldering there," said Mrs. Taylor.

Dies in Chemainus Hospital

Train Strikes City Boy Walking Island Tracks

A 13-year-old Victoria boy died in Chemainus Hospital Thursday two hours after he was struck down on the tracks by the E & N Dayliner train.

The victim, Robin Boese, 1438 Walnut, attending a summer camp at Chemainus, was walking along the tracks with two other boys and an instructor from the camp who police identified as Gerald Brunet.

The boy's companions were unharmed in the accident about four miles south of Chemainus.

A nearby resident, Mrs. W. Tiefert said she saw the train stopped about a quarter mile south of her place.

"The track there is used by many people for walking in preference to the road—they think it makes a good short cut," she said.

RCMP said they understood that the others jumped clear of the tracks but that Robin "didn't jump far enough" as the train approached.

Duncan coroner Dr. R. R. Wilson said he has ordered an inquest. Viewing of the body will be held in Duncan at 7 p.m. today.

The victim's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Boese. He is also survived by an older sister.

Cross or Face Job Loss?

Picket Line Issue Growing Problem

Some 200 non-striking federal government workers crossed picket lines outside Victoria Post Office Thursday, the first day of the national postal strike.

And they will cross the lines again today, says Tom Dalsell, regional representative for some 4,000 members of the Public Service Alliance on Vancouver Island.

"I hope this will be resolved by Monday morning, so that the government workers won't have to cross the lines," he said Thursday.

NOT TELL MONDAY
"We can't do too much before Monday morning," he said. Alliance officials met through Wednesday night, and intermittently through the day Thursday with strike leaders to settle the inter-union conflict arising from the failure to honor picket lines.

Mr. Dalsell said his membership is 100 per cent behind the postal workers, because a successful strike will mean better working conditions for all government employees.

BIG FINE
However, said Mr. Dalsell, they fear a possible $100-a-day fine and loss of job if they honor a picket line while not being on strike themselves.

The penalties, he said, are incorporated into the Public Service Staff Relations Act. Alliance members were only granted collective bargaining and strike powers in February, 1967.

In Victoria they work in offices in the post office building for the hydrographic service, the defence department, transport department, and in the family allowance and old-age pension offices.

Larry Ryan, Victoria Labor Council's secretary-treasurer, said he would like to see the federal employers honor the picket lines.

"These people are pretty new in the trades union," he said, "and they're still going by the book."

GROUND RULES
"But the viewpoint of the average union man is that if anyone is going to be part of the trade union movement he must observe the basic ground rules."

"One of these is to stand together, and to honor picket lines."

Mr. Ryan agreed that penalties are laid out for non-strikers who join a strike, but said similar regulations apply in provincial regulations.

"They are always ignored," he said. "We have to do things this way."

A good analogy, he said, was the recent firefighters' strike which held up construction of the new provincial museum.

"All workers honored that picket line, and no-one was fined," he said.

Stan Dartington, postal workers secretary, felt the government workers would not be subject to disciplinary action for honoring a picket line.

HONORING LINE
The Act, he said, states that no employee shall participate in a strike who is not included in a bargaining unit.

Saanich Will Offer First Debentures

By DON GAIN

Saanich municipality will offer debentures to the general public for the first time in its history, Comptroller-Treasurer John Tribe announced Thursday. The issue is for $1,900,000 in 7½-per-cent bonds and will be dated Aug. 15, 1968.

In making the announcement, Mr. Tribe said the municipality is alive and healthy and ardent.

He pointed to the just-released schedule of financial statements for the year ended Dec. 31, 1967, done up in an attractive booklet with a color photo of the municipal hall on its cover.

HEALTHY STATE
"Our net worth is almost $11,000,000," Mr. Tribe said, "up $1,000,000 from last year. And our annual borrowing power amounts to $17,000,000."

That's a very healthy state for a municipality of about 60,000 people, he said. It's also the highest figure for both items in the history of Saanich.

This will be the first time Saanich has gone to the public with a debenture issue, offering it for sale "over the counter," Mr. Tribe said.

HIGHER YIELD
The debentures will be available in amounts of $500 and $1,000, and will be redeemable at par in from one to 20 years.

While they are 7½-per-cent debentures, they will be priced to yield 8 per cent.

"That means we'll be selling them to the public at the same price we'd ordinarily sell them to an investment dealer," he said.

BROCHURE ON WAY

This is how they have been marketed in the past. Investment dealers would bid on blocks of bonds and the highest bidder would get them to sell to the public.

A brochure is in preparation, complete with order form, and will be ready for the public soon.

"It's an opportunity for Saanich people to invest in their own municipality," Mr. Tribe said.

The debenture issue represents about half of what the municipality has been authorized to sell.

ized to sell. The other half is expected to be arranged for later this year. The total amount, about $4,000,000, will pay for an accumulation of capital works.

It covers everything needed this year for the budget, including the arena, senior citizens' centre, Prospect Lake water, McKenzie Avenue extension, McKee estate and about three years of local improvements.

It was just this spring that the provincial government, in an amendment to the Municipal Act, made combined borrowing possible.

TIDIER PACKAGE
Formerly, said Mr. Tribe, Saanich had to borrow on individual capital works.

"Now we are allowed to combine all our borrowing authorities into one security-issuing bylaw. It's very good. It makes a tidier package."

In the financial statement booklet, Mr. Tribe pointed with pride to some other items.

At the end of last year, Saanich had collected 37.06 per cent of its taxes — the highest in its history. Its existing debt is only $4,500,000. It ended last year's operations with a surplus of $133,000.

REVENUE SURPLUS
The accumulated revenue fund surplus was $82,000.

"This enables us to finance certain works without borrowing from the bank. Also, it enables us to carry on current operations pending receipt of taxes," said Mr. Tribe.

The Saanich water system and sewerage are kept separate from the municipality's. Any surplus earned goes back into the system.

"We financed the Mt. Tolmie reservoir improvements out of water revenue, rather than borrowing."

Mr. Tribe said he was hopeful the bond issue would sell well. It would give a good return, he said.

"It's difficult to borrow money at a reasonable rate today," he said. "We're finding borrowings expensive, just like everybody else. I just hope it doesn't get any more expensive."

Tax Dollars Stretched By Good Interest Yield

The taxpayer's dollar is being stretched a little further by the city of Victoria than he probably would have suspected.

And the man responsible is city comptroller-treasurer J. H. Bramley.

Mr. Bramley's latest effort — most successful yet on behalf of the city — is a calculated gain of almost $100,000 on short-term investments of $3,792,555.

His action was ratified Thursday by the finance committee.

In a report to the committee he said he had made eight investments ranging in size from $300,000 to $500,000 at interest rates ranging from 7 to 7.35 per cent.

The investments were made by July 3, right after the due date on city tax receipts, and the longest-term investment is for 230 days. In that time the city is to have earned $96,234.

This tops last year's short-term investment earnings of slightly more than $80,000. It had been by far the most money realized in this fashion since the city began making investments with tax money several years ago.

Higher interest rates are offered as a chief reason.

The board also announced Thursday that the government has given final approval for a start on a $430,000 addition to Reynolds high school.

Nod Is Provisional

A $250,720 contract for an addition to Victoria West Elementary school was provisionally awarded Thursday to E. J. Hunter and Sons Ltd.

Bricks from an annex of the school will be salvaged to form pillars of the new, fan-shaped structure, said architect Einar Carlson of Vancouver.

The project, featuring several open areas for team teaching, must be approved by the education department.

The Hunter bid, lowest of four, came within the school board's allocation of $357,300. Dr. Carr-Jameson, the board's buildings and grounds committee chairman, said the education department granted additional funds for heating, beyond the existing $16,000-per-room cost ceiling.

In another set of tenders opened by the school board Thursday, low bid on replacement of a heating plant for Frank Hobbs elementary school was found to be higher than the board's fund allocation.

Little Collection Draws Full House

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD

ROME — Patrick de Barentzen, whose pretty little collections used to attract just a few, had a full house here. Besides five packed rows around the runway, there were standees for the first big show of the Italian couture season.

If the room was packed with people, the de Barentzen collection is packed with nostalgia, a double dose of it.

The big nostalgia for Rita Hayworth and the 'forties is shot with general nostalgia for Yves Saint Laurent, whom de Barentzen has always admired.

The combination isn't a smash.

Instead of the small, neat-as-a-pin type he has always idealized, the new de Barentzen girl is tall, big, and broadshouldered, with padding again.

She wears her hair pulled back and falling below her shoulder blades. Or caught in a black chenille snood. A big, flat beret is pinned to the back of her head and she carries her cash in a shoulder bag.

He is mad for suede. Besides suede dresses, there are suede maxlength skirts with fringed hems, worn with sequin sweaters. Suede shoes made the runway at the opening for the first time in many a year. His most successful suedes are the white suede jackets and slacks from the men's wear collection, part of which was shown with the women's clothes. It's an Italian custom.

Although de Barentzen says he prefers short skirts, his longhaired wander from just above knee to just above ankle.

Maxi coats, fitted and flared, cover pants suits with tunic tops and wide-legged, cuffed trousers. Coats, for both buyers and customers, are the most rewarding things in the collection, except for some of the simple black velvet dresses with long, flaring, sheer sleeves, outlined in jewels.

Besides hats and shoulder bags, de Barentzen brings back black in a big way — V necklines, fringe, shoes with platform soles and along back pumps. Many of the platform soles are outlined in gold kid, and for evening there are jeweled rings on the toes.

"It is my black and stainless steel collection," said Patrick de Barentzen at the end of his show. "It is a deliberate exaggeration of the 'forties that will be my definitive direction from now on. By stainless steel I mean that it has a contemporary look, too. It isn't say the way the 'forties were."

In his collection de Barentzen uses more fringe than the American Indians. He puts it on everything from tweed suits to leather jackets to crepe, velvet, and satin dresses.

Everything in the collection is black, dark gray, or a taupe brown. The dark shades, though, are incandescent with jeweled tops, jeweled belts, and the gold trimmed shoes.

De Barentzen's suits all have hip length, belted jackets. They have the severe, tailored look they used to have in the 'forties until the jacket comes off and shows the form-fitting sweater for the office.

Besides lots of dark wool checks, with jackets fringed across the shoulders for extra width, de Barentzen uses racine jersey for both men's and women's suits.

Another fabric revival is heavy black or white satin from Fumoria.

The de Barentzen furs, both men's and women's, made for Alexandre of New York, are stunning. For the girls he likes a slim, little white mink topcoat, fitted and curving up the front. If white, it's worn with a black tunic and white slacks, and, if black, the reverse color scheme.

The whole collection is peppered with B's for de Barentzen. He uses B buttons, sometimes eight on a jacket front and another pair on the sleeves. The long, rectangular scarfs are printed P D B. They are worn by both sexes once around the neck and floating off to one side.

The big program handed out

at the opening begins with a message from the designer in his own writing. It announces his 25th anniversary and welcomes all his friends. He might have added $2,800, the guarantee both Valentino and de Barentzen are charging the buyers this season. Celebrity at the show was TV actor Peter Falk. He came with a St. Bernard-type lady carrying a baby York-shire Terrier in her arms.

Young Negro Saves Minis

By PAT WILLIAMS

LONDON (AP) — A young American Negro designer saved the mini-skirt from extinction here Thursday.

Hyland Booker, 29, born in Detroit, has lived in Britain for 10 years.

At the final fall and winter fashion show of the season, marking the return of the scene of the house of Worth at a time when other couture houses are closing, Booker's hems were all two or three inches above the knee, and many of them frankly mini, contrary to the trend shown in other collections.

The heavy applause in the crowded salon was led by the enthusiastic fashion director of Playboy magazine, Robert F. Green.

Green said later: "Booker knows how to let clothes say simply that a woman is proudly a woman."

He added: "This is the most important thing that has happened in fashion for years — the return of culture."

Booker has produced a collection which glazes and shines with the clean colors of winter. Snow white often is teamed with the browns of winter trees. He also uses greys, blues, blacks and dull, glittering gold and silver. On these he splashes wine, green, ruby, and berry colors.

Against such a background the furs — mink, tiger, jaguar, chinchilla — reminded one of their wintry origins, and the jewels sparkled like icicles. Yet the effect is never chilly. It is clean, energetic and civilized — the result of remarkable flair and control. There were Donegal tweeds, silk organza, crepes, and worsted to give controlled shape.

The line was always firmly held: gently belted, easily flowing, with the bloused-look dominating.

Collars were neat or stood up high to the chin. Sleeves fitted to the wrist, or belted gently. Short tunics were often used for the evening.

Belts were a feature, often several inches high from the waist up, cinching over blouses or suit-jackets which fell to the bottom of the hip, or loosely fitting over dresses cut to fall from slightly above the waist.

Bugs Control Other Bugs

PUNEY, Vt. (AP)—Esther C. Penick said that bugs do a better job on bugs than pesticides so she planned to import 15,000 praying mantises and 500,000 ladybugs to her farm to kill other bugs. She didn't say where she planned to get the mantises and ladybugs.

Local Buyers Order for Fall

Chris Ciccimarra models cape and Cindi Morgan, leather-like dress.—(Kinsman)

By TRUDY KEMP

While most of us are still thinking about summer fun time and what to wear to keep cool, fashion buyers in local stores have been busy ordering smart new clothes for fall and winter.

I had a preview of the exciting new fall fashions Thursday afternoon following a visit to Eaton's fashion floor and a quick peek behind the scenes.

Leather and tweed are the "in fabric" for the coming season.

Co-ordinates, including skirts, slims, vests, jackets and dresses are being shown in real leather and also in imitation leather for the younger crowd. The handsome outfits come in a variety of styles and colors. Leather trim is also being used extensively on dresses, coats and suits.

Back in fashion are dresses, coats and suits in the one-time favorite, Irish Donegal tweed.

High shades for fall in ensembles and separates include avocado, pumpkin, red in various tones, grey and camel and brown and camel combinations.

A quick look at several dresses and suits confirmed the fact that the natural waistline is much in favor. Suit jackets are fitted and are longer and the Nehru collar in both dresses and jackets is definitely "in."

Fit and flare skirts, waist-fitted or low torso style, are shown and lengths vary from one to three-inches above the knee-cap, with a few styles one-inch below. Only a sprinkling of maxis are being shown here.

Bound to be popular with the junior miss is the meditation dress, a new arrival on the fashion scene. It comes in plain satin or a colorful print and features a Nehru neckline, and long, wide sleeves.

Also back this year, only moreso, are the fitted boots in rubber, leather and imitation leathers. They come in below the knee and over the knee style and in a wide variety of colors, adding that extra touch of a martini to a leather dress or coat.

A brief inspection of the hat bar on the fashion floor showed that the leather look is a strong contender with the fun to wear fake fur in lady's chapeaux.

Hats are still inclined to be worn on the back of the head for the fall-winter season. Berets, helmets, two-tiered pillboxes, and turbans are among the old favorites.

Reminiscent of the early thirties is the new split-brim cloche, and for the more tailored look is cloche with the "manish profile."

Soft, large brimmed hats, some in organdies and chiffons and some with a brimful of flowing feathers, all so delightfully feminine, will add a touch of elegance for that special occasion.

Mayor Gets Gifts From Lake Lady

—Jim Ryan

Kelowna's Lady of the Lake

A vivacious, brown-eyed brunette who is currently on a 2,500-mile journey that is taking her right across the province and into Alberta and Washington State, paid a brief visit to Victoria Thursday afternoon.

She is Kelowna's lovely Lady of the Lake and is on a good-will tour with a personal invitation to all to attend the Okanagan city's annual International Regatta set for Aug. 7 through to Aug. 18.

During 18-year-old Maria Crittenden's stop here she met Mayor Hugh Stephen and enjoyed a conducted tour of the council chambers.

Maria presented Mayor Stephen with token gifts including apple juice to indicate Kelowna's title of Canada's Apple City, a yachting cap as the symbol of the Kelowna Regatta, and a miniature monster named Gogogo which is said to inhabit the depths of Lake Okanagan.

These token gifts are being presented to all the mayors she meets on her tour.

This trip to Victoria is Maria's first but it will not be her last.

"I really like it here and I've decided I am coming back for a holiday on my own," she said.

"Victoria seems like an ideal Kelowna to me. It is so nice and sunny and the flowers are just beautiful," said the Kelowna-born girl.

Maria's year-long reign as Lady of the Lake ends on the first night of the Regatta when she crowns her successor. Her plans for the future are still indefinite.

"I would like to go to Europe and work for a year and then go to university," she said.

Antropology, interior design and psychology are her main interests but she hasn't made up her mind which one she wants to major in.

She is an avid reader and historical novels are her favorite books.

Swimming, water skiing and snow skiing are her favorite pastimes. Prior to this year she taught swimming lessons for two summers in her home town.

Maria will be entering the Miss PNE contest as Miss Kelowna later this summer.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Am I a nut? Frankly, I feel great. I'm not even ashamed. All my friends think I'm an oddball because I am 29 and not married. They swear I'm putting on a brave front to hide my misery.

I enjoy men — especially the high-voltage, conversational type. I like a fast game of tennis with a first-rate male player. I love to dance. I'm not immune to a physically attractive man who has a brain to go along with the brawn. And I've even been "involved" with a few gentlemen. But the thought of a double harness for life is most unappealing. No thanks.

I have an excellent job and I enjoy my work. I still live with my parents (which many friends consider odd), but we get along famously and I conduct my life with no interference whatsoever. Why should I trade this for housework, squalling kids, whooping cough shots, diapers, mortgages, and maybe even a two-timer or an alcoholic?

I'm not knocking marriage, Ann. For those who need it, it's wonderful. But why do people think there's something strange about a woman who doesn't want it? I wish my friends would quit pushing. I'm a contented gal. Can you think of anything that would change my mind? — PEACE-LOVING PEARL.

Dear Pearl: Yes. The right man.

Society Menace

Dear Ann Landers: You are a menace to society. The morals of our country have never been in worse shape. If ever we needed a figure of authority in family life it is now. Yet you take every opportunity to knock down the male as head of the house and make him look foolish and weak.

American men are losing ground every day. Women own most of the property, most of the securities and most of the real estate. They run everything, including the government. (The wives of the country's leaders make the decisions and tell them what to do.)

What we need is an advice columnist who will tell women to stop being so bossy — to sit back and keep their mouths shut. Of course you won't print this letter because you have no answer. — ONE OF THE OPPRESSED.

Dear One: I never made the statement that women are superior to men nor did I say they were smarter. But come to think of it, did you ever hear of a woman marrying a dumb man for his shape?

Theory Works

Dear Ann Landers: I want to help the woman who wrote that she is a nervous wreck because her husband insists on smoking in bed. She said he fell asleep with a cigarette in his hand the other evening and burned a hole in the carpet.

I have a solution for this problem. It could save some lives. Please print it. Cigarette smokers should train themselves to hold the cigarette between the third and fourth fingers. It can never drop and anyone who falls asleep with a cigarette between the third and fourth fingers will wake up fast — as soon as the cigarette burns down that far.

— MRS. D.R.Z.

Dear Mrs.: I checked out your theory with my cigarette smoking friends and they say you are right. Many thanks.

No Bank Account

Dear Ann Landers: If you were 21 would you marry a young fellow who has no bank account, a few small debts, a mother to look after, a very good job, lots of ambition and unlimited faith in the future?

— UNDECIDED.

Dear Undecided: I did — and today we are celebrating our 25th wedding anniversary.

Birth Control Black Market

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Birth control knowledge will not encourage pre-marital sexual intercourse, but it may save young persons from the consequences of false information, Dr. Fred Kincl of the Population Council of New York said Wednesday.

Dr. Kincl told a seminar on family planning that in some parts of the United States a black market traffic that feeds on the ignorance of youth exists in connection with birth control pills.

He said young girls are sold "a pill for a night's date" in the belief they can avoid pregnancy if sexual intercourse takes place.

"The pill-for-night method doesn't work," Dr. Kincl said. "Doctors who prescribe oral contraceptives for their patients usually advise them to avoid intercourse or use alternative means of birth control for almost a month until after the medication has begun."

Dr. Kincl said knowledge of birth control is not an instigator of promiscuity, but rather protection against the mistakes of youth.

He said it is up to physicians to supply birth control knowledge. The public, he said, is entitled to know about all methods of birth control. "The fears and taboos of the past have to be laid to rest forever," Dr. Kincl said.

Dr. William Cornett of Toronto said the Canadian government "condones the breaking of the law" with out-of-date birth control legislation.

He said the justice department still retains laws in the criminal code forbidding artificial means of birth control, although they are being ignored and not enforced.

Bad Cheques Jail Man from Alberta

An Alberta man was given a total of eight months in jail when he appeared before Magistrate William Ostler Thursday afternoon for sentencing.

Norman William Ingeberg, 44, of Lethbridge, early this month admitted writing four worthless cheques and receiving a total of $375 in cash from Budget Rent A Car, 843 Douglas.

He pleaded guilty to four counts of false pretences and also to obtaining lodging by fraud. He paid a $195 bill for lodgings at City Centre Motel with a worthless cheque.

"It is clear you adopted the tricks of a confidence man," Magistrate Ostler told the accused.

"You deliberately cultivated the trust of these people and then you callously defrauded them."

He sentenced Ingeberg to eight months on each of four charges and three months on the other, all to run concurrently.

A man who went on shopping spree with NSF cheques this month pleaded guilty to charges of false pretences in Central Magistrate's court Thursday afternoon.

Raymond P. Moore, formerly of 1140 Government, admitted buying women's shoes and a handbag for $51.39 at Fashion Bootery, 711 Yates, on July 4, and paying for them with a cheque which was later returned, marked "Not Sufficient Funds."

He admitted buying a woman's suit, blouse and dress for $283.50 and four pairs of panties, a slip, nightgown and negligee for $34.30 at Eaton's on the same day. They were also paid for with an NSF cheque.

TV SOLD

He also admitted buying a portable TV set last Tuesday at Furniture Mart, 1420 Broad, for $166.95, paying for it with an NSF cheque, then selling it to Broad-Johnson Trading Centre, 617 Johnson, for $45 cash.

The case was adjourned until 2:15 p.m. today when further charges will be read.

MAGISTRATE

Magistrate Ostler told Barry Pederson, 20, of 46 Croase, he needed deep counselling and therapy for his problems and said he would try to get him into Alouette River Institute, a prison farm near Haney.

He sentenced the youth to eight months in jail on two counts of theft. Pederson pleaded guilty July 8 to stealing $210 from a downtown garage and $10 worth of cigarettes and groceries from a parked car.

LEONARD HOLMES

FINED

Fined $35 each for being minors in possession of liquor were David G. Halls, 114 Palmer; Peter G. Humber, 1435 Westall; Leonard G. Longien, 1416 Denman; Ronald J. Muir, 2305 Forbes.

KENNETH JEROME PIERSON

Kenneth Jerome Pierson, 3239 Galloway, was jailed for 14 days when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving. It was his second offence. He was forbidden to drive for six months anywhere in Canada except to and from work. James Gracey, 710 Cormorant, was fined $300 when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Careless drivers: John Grew, 3645 Saanich, $40; Lawrence W. Harrison, 2361 Cranmore, $45; Maurice J. E. Hollingworth, Sidney, $50, two months' suspension; Dennis B. Keeler, HMCS St. Croix, $50.

Police Open Fire On Big Crowd

SAN FELIX, Venezuela (UPI) — Police opened fire Wednesday on a crowd of about 20,000 demonstrators supporting a strike by transportation workers. One person was killed and 15 were injured, authorities said.

The government declared a state of emergency in San Felix, a booming industrial centre near iron ore installations on the Orinoco River. The transportation workers had called a strike in protest against the poor condition of roads in San Felix.

Tax Form Leaves Victoria 'Helpless'

Victoria has found itself with bees in its tax bonnet, courtesy of the provincial government.

Referring to confusion that followed the province's attempt at establishing a simplified, standard municipal tax form, City Manager Dennis Young said Thursday:

"It is an unfortunate situation. I hope the reaction of all the municipalities in British Columbia will be sufficient to bring about a change."

But otherwise, he told the legislative and finance committee, there was little the city could do about providing relief for two taxpayers complaining about penalties.

The two, among 47 penalized an additional 5-per-cent payment, have complained in writing to the city. They are Richard Hawkins of 1560 Despard, charged an extra $37, and British American Paint Co., assessed an additional $1,183.

The other 45 include both big and little taxpayers. One is the Empress Hotel.

In their briefs to the city, both the paint company and Mr. Hawkins said payment had been made on July 2, listed on the new forms as the date the penalty would take effect.

But the complainants say the wording of the provincially-designed municipal tax form indicates they shouldn't have been penalized at all if payment was made by July 2.

The tax bill puts it this way: "A percentage addition of 5 per cent will be added to the current taxes unpaid on the second day of July."

The Bapco brief terms the Municipal Act "vague and ambiguous" and says it should be interpreted in favor of taxpayers.

Mr. Young said it was unfortunate the city was bound by what he considered a confusing tax form.

From one boat builder to another—George Bonner junior high school principal Peter Owen, above, of Kilmalu Road Mill Bay, used winter months to build four Sabot training yachts. They will soon be launched by his sons David, 11, and Paul, 8, and friend Reid Jackson, 6. Well-finished little craft are fitted with brightly-colored suits of dacron sails manufactured in Hong Kong. Bought ready-made, Sabots cost $360. Home-built they work out to only $95.

Some Built, Some Repaired

Hey, Hoist the M'sail! -Or Hand Me a Hammer

Endeavor, owned by Seattle lawyer Bob Roberts. Yacht hit rock in Lady-smith waters recently. Bentzen said, "This ship is a fine example of good workmanship; if it hadn't been built so well, it would have sunk."

Dressy Pair Seek Berth

NANAIMO — Two hitch-hiking expedition by himself before meeting up with Atkins, said Thursday. "That going up in a jet, having a coffee, and coming down again, isn't my idea of a holiday. "We like to meet people of the country," he said emphatically. The two have travelled across 32 countries, sleeping, eating, and travelling on day-to-day expense accounts. They report on their experiences and take photographs, sending articles to interested British newspapers.

They arrived in Nanaimo following a freight train ride from the Prairies. Both are looking for a bathtub sponsor. They wish to join other bathtub enthusiasts in the race across Georgia Strait. However the pair said they would even row across if no one would lend them a motor for their tub. Meanwhile, officials of the Nanaimo-Vancouver second annual bathtub race say the race has attracted 275 entrants, 63 more than last year. The craft are expected to take about 2½ hours to cross the 36-mile stretch of Georgia Strait to Kitsilano Beach.

Driver Jailed 14 Days

NANAIMO — A Wellington man, Gumar Negeris, 37, has been jailed for 14 days for drunken driving. Negeris was charged Monday night after police discovered his car in a ditch on the Island Highway, north of Nanaimo. Negeris was found lying in the ditch in a drunken stupor, 20 feet from his car, court was told. Magistrate Stan Wardill prohibited Negeris from driving for 18 months.

Wrestler Dies

WILLIAMS LAKE (CP)—Bill Kohnke, 56, a former professional wrestler, has died in the Cariboo. He started on the wrestling circuit in the 1930s, retired 10 years later and became involved in lumber and hotel enterprises here.

Californians Involved

Airborne Driver Fined Maximum

NANAIMO — A Nanaimo driver who sideswiped a car on the George Pearson bridge July 19, and flew 72 feet through the air before coming to rest against Nanaimo's civic arena, was fined the maximum $500 for dangerous driving by Magistrate Eric Winch Thursday. Terrance Patrick Kelly, 19, of 2125 Halliburton, pleaded guilty.

RCMP said Kelly was the driver of a car which rounded a curve on the wrong side of the road at a high speed, skidded 183 feet, and while in the skid hit a California couple's car that was travelling at 10 m.p.h. Kelly's car glanced off 80 feet of the curb, scraped 12 feet along the side of the curb, became airborne for 72 feet, hit the ground and skidded for 70 feet, and finally came to rest upside down against the arena. Property damage was $3,000. No one was seriously injured. After assessing the case, Magistrate Winch noted "That if you put all these things together, you're dealing with a jet aircraft rather than a car."

"Part of dangerous driving is that you do not look at the end result, which can so easily be a fantastic vehicle accident, injury, or even death. "You were fortunate that the accident occurred at 5:45 a.m. despite the fact that we have a young married man here with a steady job, he has no cause to receive special consideration. "It is possible that this man went into a sleep or daze ... anyone who drives in this manner puts his licence on the line."

Parlor Parley

British Columbia Hotels Association officials are expecting more contract negotiations shortly with 100 hotel workers on the island who have voted 85 per cent in favor of strike action. The workers, located in hotels from Nanaimo to Campbell River, have rejected increases ranging from 25 to 60 cents hourly on base rates of $2.25 to $2.15.

Indecent Assault

DUNCAN — Broginder Singh Natara, 25, of Duncan and Maurice Henry La Fleur, 22, of Lake Cowichan have been charged jointly with indecent assault. Natara elected to be tried by magistrate and pleaded not guilty. La Fleur, who did not enter a plea, elected to be tried by a judge, without a jury. Natara's case will be heard Aug. 8 and a preliminary hearing for La Fleur has been set for July 26.

Stolen Money Orders Cause RCMP Concern

NANAIMO — Bank money orders, with a potential value of $25,000, drawn on the Harewood branch of the Bank of Montreal are being cashed in the Vancouver area. Nanaimo RCMP say 10 of the money orders in the amount of $200 each have already been cashed—$90 are still outstanding. Maximum value of each money order is $250. A spokesman said thieves are using a protectograph to stamp the orders. The money orders being sought were apparently stolen in transit somewhere between Montreal and Nanaimo.

13-Year-Old Trip Winner

A 13-year-old Lake Cowichan boy who caught a 212-pound trout in Cowichan Lake on one of his first fishing trips has won the King Fisherman-Victoria Flying Club camp-out to Nahmint Lake.

He is Kenny Clevette, Box 276, Lake Cowichan, who will fly in to Nahmint Lake with Vic Dawson July 26 and will stay at Vic's Blackie's Cabin and take part in some wonderful rainbow trout fishing. Mr. Dawson will fly to Cowichan Lake to pick up young Kenny at Cedar's Resort where he weighed in his prize-winning fish.

Kenny won't know about this trip until he reads this story, but it is expected he will take along his father, Frank.

"I am his chum. He will want to take me," said Mr. Clevette. "This is wonderful news. It will be a real fun weekend."

The prize trip is a hidden weight prize for youngsters 16 years and under who weighed fish into the King Fisherman Contest in May and June.

SOS Anglers

There is bound to be some difficulty in securing King Fisherman entries during the mail strike. One suggestion we have is that if any angler is returning to Victoria, he might ask the weigh-in station where he is fishing if there are any entry forms for the Contest. If they are dropped in the slot at the Victoria Press building they will get to the King Fisherman secretary and be listed in the paper to give up-to-date fishing reports.

Schenley invites you to the Weddings of the year.

the new systemic insecticide that fertilizes!

Trust ORTHO to come up with this one. All you do is work in ORTHO SYSTEMIC ROSE AND FLOWER CARE pellets around your plants and they get fed and protected from sucking insects at the same time.

carry them into sap stream to food and protect.

Best thing about this, of course, is that both insecticide and fertilizer are systemic, work within the roots and other flowers, from roots up. No spraying or sprinkling can't wash it away. So buds get big and beautiful. And sucking insects (aphids, mites and others) that come to feed, die. Boom—confused, too. You get full fertilization and protection from insects for four weeks or more for pennies a plant.

Summer Training Drums 600

Naval Reservists Swarm West

The annual migration of naval reservists to Esquimalt will add about 600 officers, men and Wrens to the local scene this summer.

Victoria's reserve division, HMCS Malahat, formerly at 1008 Wharf but now located within CFB Esquimalt, will supply some permanent administrative staff and more than 100 reserves for summer training.

HMCS Discovery of Vancouver, one of the largest divisions in Canada, will send more than 100.

The reservists will train, go to sea, study, acquire and reacquire themselves with knowledge necessary to operate effectively if called upon to serve on active duty.

Three Victoria officers of

THREE DUTIES

They are Lieut. Daniel Gal-lacher of 1745 Kings, staff officer administration; Lieut. L. D. Goodman, HCB Grant, leadership instructor for officers, and S/Lt. Ronald Ritchie, 723 Mount Joy, navigation instructor for Onondaga UNTD division.

Lt.-Cdr. David Young of

Pacific, represents the mid-Vancouver Island region.

Accountants Pass Exams

Successful Victoria students who wrote annual examinations of the Certified General Accountants' Association of B.C., are J. W. Andrew, L. G. Cole, C. A. Fields and K. W. Yerex, first year; D. R. Bell, L. W. Davis, Mrs. M. Reig, second year; M. M. Dean, J. B. Murray, A. J. Rooversdal, third year.

Graduates this year from Victoria are B. F. Adams, K. W. Moulson and F. J. Thompson. The curriculum is five years long and permits students to earn professional qualifications while employed full time.

Forest Staff Appointed

Four appointments to the staff of the Forest Research Laboratory have been announced by Ray Lejeune, regional director.

Research officers David G. W. Edwards and Richard Piesch will work in fire research and Douglas H. Pierce will be a technician in the insect and disease survey section.

Both Sides Agree Mail Strike Solid One

● Citizens try to cope as postal service comes to stop. Page 13.

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials of the postal unions and the post office department found something on which to agree Thursday — the strike by some 24,000 postal workers is a solid one.

William Houle, co-chairman of the Council of Postal Unions, interviewed a few hours after the 2 a.m. PDT start of the national strike, said "It appears everyone is out."

A department spokesman agreed. "It's a pretty solid strike," he said. Of the department's 410 offices, all but a couple of down were effectively shut down. The walkout followed rejection by the council Wednesday of a 15-cent hourly wage increase over a 14-month contract and the demand for improvements in working conditions. The unions want a 75-cent hourly increase, though they say they'll tone this down if certain fringe benefits are granted.

Houle took a Canadian Press reporter on a tour of the council's spacious national strike headquarters in a centre-town office building here.

He pointed to a huge wall map showing Canada broken up into 15 strike zones and outlined the communication network.

Mediation meetings by Judge Rees Lippe have been adjourned until 3 p.m. Sunday, when he will sit again with council and government treasury board representatives.

Houle said the strike is much better organized than the walkout in 1965. Most workers returned within a week, although Montreal unionists stayed out for 16 days.

A short, stocky, almost cherubic 50-year-old, Houle played a less important role in the 1965 strike and in the near-strike of 1966, when last minute mediation averted a walkout. He was president of the Montreal local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers in those days.

Now, along with Roger Decarie, president of the Letter Carriers' Union of Reaction to severed postal communications will climax in a week when companies offering alternatives to mail delivery expect to be inundated with messages.

Douglas:

Don't Count Me Out

REGINA (CP) — T. C. Douglas said Thursday the federal executive of the New Democratic Party has asked him to stay on as leader until July, 1969.

"Don't count on my not going back to the House of Commons," he told a cheering crowd of delegates to the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan NDP.

Douglas, who suffered personal defeat in Burnaby-Seymour in the June 25 election, had indicated earlier he planned to relinquish the NDP leadership.

Returning to the province where he was premier from 1944 to 1963, Douglas said the NDP is "still a vital and living force in the political life of Canada."

As to his possible return to the Commons, the NDP leader said he would not want anyone to give up a seat for him, but there was always the chance of an opening "if someone breaks a leg."

"I will be spreading banana peels all over Parliament Hill," he added.

Douglas said the immediate outlook for agriculture is "not bright" and recalled that 25 years ago, western farmers organized a protest march in Ottawa.

Business boomed for telephones, telegraph, air express, and the U.S. mail service Thursday, the first day of the strike, as Victorians sought ways of getting messages through.

"But," said Gordon Murphy, spokesman for B.C. Telephone, "it wasn't so much that we couldn't handle it."

PHONES BUSY

"We had all available staff in, and our long distance phones were particularly busy, but I think we'll be all right for the first week."

He said business did not get out of hand during the 1965 strike, but was getting to that stage when the strike ended after a week.

"People and businesses can manage without mail for a while, but then they have to communicate if the community isn't to be crippled," he said.

REAL EFFECT

"That's when all communications systems will feel the real effect of the strike."

He appealed to all long distance callers to use direct dialing whenever possible to alleviate delays.

There seems to be little possibility of an early settlement according to Gerry Kewey, president of the NDP.

Czechs Defy Demands As Soviet Bloc Splits

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's leaders rejected Thursday Soviet bloc demands that they abandon liberalization and return to the old-guard existence they cast aside six months ago.

In a television speech to the nation, Communist chief Alexander Dubcek said he and the party leadership were determined to continue the new policy though "our road will not be easy" and "we need calm and hard work."

Brezhnev to Prague?

As the Moscow-Prague confrontation thus seemed unresolved, there were these other developments:

● In London, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart suggested that the Soviet Union keep hands off Czechoslovakia.

● In Belgrade, a Yugoslav report from Prague said

Soviet Communist chief Leonid I. Brezhnev will meet with Dubcek Saturday or Sunday. Yugoslav President Tito was reported to have postponed briefly a trip to Prague to stress his solidarity with the independent-minded Czechoslovakia. The Yugoslav Communist party meanwhile declared its full support for Prague in a voluminous document.

● In Moscow, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin met with Czech Deputy Premier Frantisek Haman to discuss economic relations, the Soviet news agency Tass said. There were no details.

● In Prague it was announced that Soviet Marshal Ivan Yakovlevski will return to Moscow Friday after supervising withdrawal of Soviet troops from Czechoslovakia. About 15,000 Soviet troops were reported still in the country after Warsaw pact manoeuvres that ended June 30.

Dubcek said in his speech "we are solving problems which have arisen in past years in the party and in our society ... and atmosphere has arisen when everyone can publicly, without fear, hostility and openly arrive at his own opinion."

In reply to a letter from the Soviet Union and four East-bloc allies demanding a halt to the "absolutely unacceptable" liberalization drive, the Czech party president denied

Fashion Notes From All Over

LONDON (UPI) — Two sentences in The Times Thursday provided a neat commentary on the changing times.

"The guests at the Scala Theatre last night for a sale of ballet costumes by Sotheby's," the newspaper said, "were dripping with pearls, swathed in chiffon, furs and figured brocade. And that was only some of the men."

Turner Turns Aside From Solidarity Line

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Turner will take his arguments for breaking up the Criminal Code revision bill into sections to the cabinet and the Liberal caucus.

One of the chief men he will have to convince is Prime Minister Trudeau, his predecessor in the justice department, who still favors putting the bill through Parliament as a single item.

Mr. Turner said in an interview Thursday he and Mr. Trudeau "share our convictions" about the proposals to change laws relating to such diverse subjects as abortion, homosexual conduct and control of firearms.

Whether the changes would be presented to Parliament as a single item or broken down into several separate bills is "a matter of tactics or strategy," Mr. Turner said.

Mr. Trudeau told a reporter Wednesday he still regards the bill as a single item. He added that if Mr. Turner "has grave reasons for changing it, I suppose we'd consider them."

Mr. Turner said earlier the bill might be broken up into several separate items, permitting MPs to vote against one particular matter without opposing the entire scope of change.

"I want to make sure that an MP who is against abortion but for a tougher firearms law doesn't lose his vote," Mr. Turner said.

Bennett Springs Surprises

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Bank of British Columbia was officially opened Thursday with a luncheon, ribbon-cutting ceremony and two surprise announcements.

Premier Bennett, who had fought since 1964 to bring the bank into being, added spice to the ceremony by announcing a star is expected to be made next March 1 on a towering provincial building in Vancouver into which the bank is expected to move its headquarters.

The 35-storey building will house provincial offices and also provide headquarters for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and B.C. Hydro and Power Authority as well as the bank. The second unexpected development was the announcement by Albert Hall, president of the new bank, that a Toronto office had been opened simultaneously Thursday.

"This outlet will provide day-to-day information on eastern and international markets and provide the Bank of B.C. with an entry into the eastern money market which should prove very beneficial," said Mr. Hall.

It had been expected that the Toronto office, in effect an administrative office and clearing house for bank business but not a branch accepting deposits, would be opened sometime next year. It will be under the direction of Duke Scott.

"This is a great day for Vancouver and for British Columbia," said Mr. Bennett. "And it is a great day for Canada. We've really got co-operative federalism with this bank. Now B.C. will really be able to keep the rest of Canada afloat."

Trans-Canada Emblem Washes Out Highway

TERRACE BAY, Ont. (CP) — Highway officials said Thursday it could take up to six days to repair a break in the Trans-Canada Highway caused by dam-building heavers.

The dam, about seven miles east of here, washed out one-and-a-half miles of highway when it broke Wednesday and allowed the lake it formed to flow across the road.

LONDON (UPI) — American authorities took custody of James Earl Ray Thursday night. They put the accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King aboard a plane bound for the United States but kept details of his journey secret.

The U.S. Embassy announced Ray had started his journey back to the United States but declined to enlarge on the trip schedule. Other sources said the former Missouri convict was taken to an airfield near London shortly after midnight London time.

LEGAL STEPS

Earlier Thursday British authorities completed legal steps allowing Ray's extradition to the United States.

Ray will go back to Memphis, Tenn., to stand trial for murder in the April 4 sniper slaying of the civil rights leader. Even Ray's American attorney, Arthur Hanes Sr. of Birmingham, Ala., did not know the schedule for Ray's return. He complained he was refused permission to fly back in the plane with Ray.

LAWYER ANGRY

"I don't want this man grilled, cross-examined and interrogated in the plane when I'm not there," Hanes said, adding he had told Ray to "keep his mouth shut" and "not even talk about the weather."

At Memphis, authorities prepared for Ray's arrival by imposing tight security around the concrete county building complex. State troopers, deputy sheriffs and city policemen were placed on duty around the building. They were armed with pistols and night sticks.

British authorities also were secretive about the trip.

"There is nothing we can say at the moment," the press secretary for the British Home Office said.

California Couple Involved

Airborne Car Like Jet, Driver Was 'Fortunate'

NANAIMO — A Nanaimo driver who sideswiped a car on the George Pearson bridge July 13, and flew 12 feet through the air before coming to rest against Nanaimo's civic arena, was fined the maximum $300 for dangerous driving by Magistrate Eric Winch Thursday.

Terrance Patrick Kelly, 19, of 2135 Haliburton, pleaded guilty.

BLOW SPEED

RCMP said Kelly was the driver of a car which rounded a curve on the wrong side of the road at a high speed, skidded 183 feet, and while in the skid hit a California couple's car that was travelling at 10 m.p.h.

Kelly's car glanced off 80 feet of the curb, scraped 12 feet along the side of the curb, became airborne for 12 feet, hit the ground and skidded for 70 feet, and finally came to rest upside down against the arena.

NO ONE BADLY HURT

Property damage was $3,000. No one was seriously injured.

After assessing the case, Magistrate Winch noted "That if you put all these things together, you're dealing with a jet aircraft rather than a car."

"Part of dangerous driving is that you do not look at the end result, which can so easily be a fantastic vehicle accident, injury, or even death."

"You were fortunate that the accident occurred at 5:45 a.m., despite the fact that we have a young married man here with a steady job, he has no cause to receive special consideration."

"It is possible that this man went into a sleep or daze... anyone who drives in this manner puts his licence on the line."

Henley Regatta? Not Likely

Dressy Visitors Want Berths

NANAIMO — Two hitchhikers from London, England, wearing bowler hats, pin-striped suits, and carrying tightly-rolled umbrellas, arrived in Nanaimo Thursday for a close look at this weekend's bathtub race.

Kenneth F. Crutchlow, 24, and Clifford Atkins, 21, were greeted Thursday by Mayor Frank Ney, who presented the pair with banners of the Royal Nanaimo Bathub Society.

Crutchlow, who started the hitch-hiking expedition to himself before meeting up with Atkins, said Thursday, "That going up in a jet, having a coffee, and coming down again, isn't any idea of a holiday. 'We like to meet people of the country,' he said emphatically."

The two have travelled across 32 countries, sleeping, eating, and travelling on day-to-day expense accounts. They report on their experiences and take photographs, sending articles to interested British newspapers.

They arrived in Nanaimo following a freight train ride from the Prairies.

Both are looking for a bathtub sponsor. They wish to join other bathtub enthusiasts in the race across Georgia Strait.

However the pair said they would even row across if no one would lend them a motor for their tub.

Meanwhile, officials of the Nanaimo-Vancouver second annual bathtub race say the race has attracted 375 entrants, 63 more than last year.

The craft are expected to take about 2½ hours to cross the 35-mile stretch of Georgia Strait to Kitsilano Beach.

The event is sponsored by the Royal Nanaimo Bathub Society in cooperation with the Vancouver Sea Festival.

Stolen Money Orders Cause RCMP Concern

NANAIMO — Bank money orders, with a potential value of $225,000, drawn on the Harewood branch of the Bank of Montreal are being cashed in the Vancouver area.

Nanaimo RCMP say 10 of the money orders in the amount of $300 each have already been cashed—990 are still outstanding.

ORDERS STAMPED

Maximum value of each money order is $250. A spokesman said thieves are using a protectograph to stamp the orders.

The money orders being sought were apparently stolen in transit somewhere between Montreal and Nanaimo.

Parlor Parley

British Columbia Hotels Association officials are expecting more contract negotiations shortly with 100 beer parlor workers on the Island who have voted 85 per cent in favor of strike action.

The workers, located in hotels from Nanaimo to Campbell River, have rejected increases ranging from 55 to 60 cents hourly on base rates of $2.25 to $2.15.

Water Level Grows Safer

NORTH COWICHAN — The water situation in the North Cowichan municipality is sound and secure, Mayor Donald Morton said Thursday.

He said compared with last year, the water supply at Chemainus is in good shape and recent rain improved storage at Miller Creek Dam Reservoir which is being fed from Holyoak Lake on Mount Brenton.

FIRE PRECAUTION

He said "The only reason why we put liberal sprinkling regulations on the Chemainus system is to maintain a safe pressure level in case of fire. At this stage we have no shortage."

The situation at Crofton, which gets its water from Crofton Lake at Richards Mountain east of the village, is even better and no restrictions have been necessary so far.

SUCCESSFUL

The mayor said the new southern water system, put into operation last November, is proving to be successful.

Two pumps at York Road deliver close to 1,000,000 gallons of water a day to about 500 homes.

TRIAL PERIOD

The mayor pointed out it has to be given a one-year trial period before further extensions can be made.

"Plans are under way to drill for at least two more wells for the southern system."

"We are pleased that the water situation is as good as it is, and if the drilling proves successful, we hope to cope with water extensions."

POPULATION GROWS

He said the improvement of the water system will never end because of increasing population.

"Applications for new subdivisions, building permits and water are coming into the office steadily."

Fatal Accident Near Chemainus

Train Strikes Victoria Boy

CHEMAINUS — A 13-year-old Victoria boy was knocked down by the E & N dayliner Thursday afternoon. He died in Chemainus Hospital two hours later at 6 p.m.

He was Robin Boese, 1438 Walnut, who was attending a summer camp at Chemainus.

Boese was walking along the tracks with two other boys and an instructor from the camp, whom police identified as Gerald Brunet.

The accident happened about four miles south of Chemainus.

A resident on Ashcroft Road, Mrs. W. Tiefert, said Thursday night she saw the train stationary about a quarter of a mile south of her place.

"I wondered what was happening so I sent my boy down," she said.

"The track there is used by many people for walking in preference to the road — they think it makes a good short cut," she said.

There is a private crossing near the de Witt dairy farm in the area.

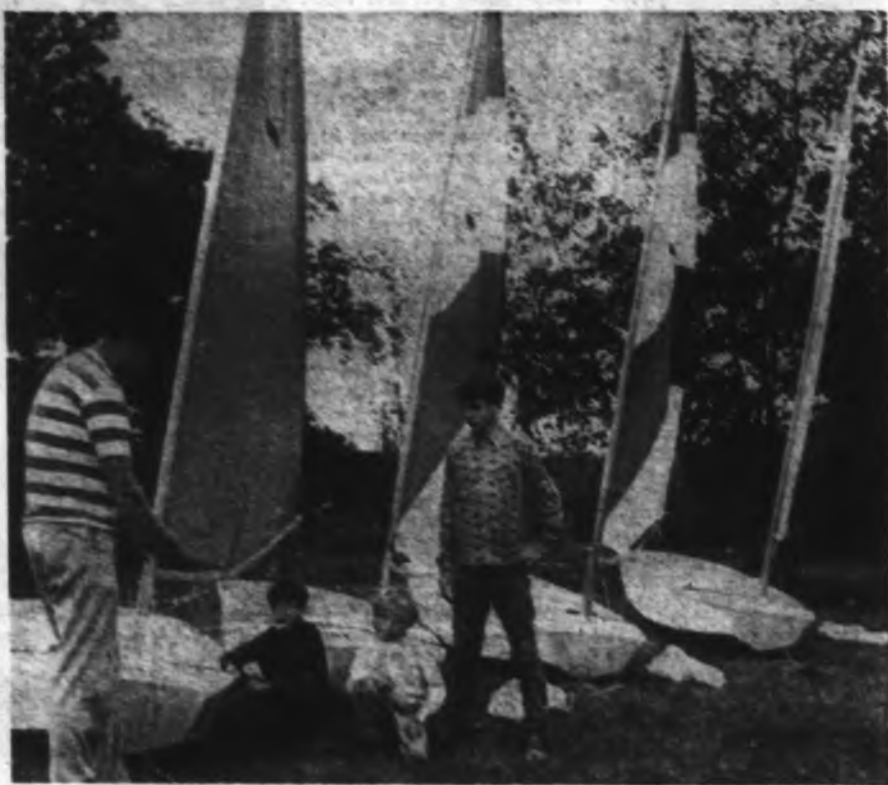

The four were on an outing, and RCMP said they understood Robin had failed to follow the others.

Duncan Coroner Dr. R. R. Wilson said Thursday night he had ordered an inquest.

Viewing of the body will be held at 7 p.m. today.

RCMP are withholding the names of Robin's companions and the train engineer until investigations are completed.

A Chemainus Hospital spokesman said cause of death included massive internal injuries.

From one boat builder to another—George Bonner junior high school principal Peter Owen, above, of Kitima Road Mill Bay, used winter months to build four Sabot training yachts. They will soon be launched by his sons David, 11, and Paul, 8, and friend Reid Jackson, 6. Well-finished little craft are fitted with brightly-colored sails of dacron sails manufactured in Hong Kong. Bought ready-made, Sabots cost $360. Home-built they work out to only $95.

Victorian AWOL from U.S. Marines

Trudeau Asked for Opinion

Prime Minister Trudeau received a letter Wednesday written on behalf of a 21-year-old Victorian who says he is wanted in the United States for desertion from the U.S. Marine Corps in Vietnam.

Firemen Say 'Cheese' - Without Camera

"Cheese," said members of the Victoria fire department Wednesday night, but they weren't smiling for a photograph.

In the oven at No. 4, 216 Menzies, they discovered the remains of a blackened cheese pie that had been forgotten. It was a little late at night for a cheese pie anyway.

Referendum Not So High

Spanish ratepayers can relax about that $2,000,000, Spanish school board chairman Mrs. Nora Lindsay said Wednesday night.

She said a local weekly paper's erroneous report that the referendum would be for $6,000,000 had caused concern among ratepayers.

"It will be just over $4,000,000, of which Spanish ratepayers will provide $1,000,000," she said.

"I don't know where they got that $6,000,000 figure," she said.

APPROVAL SOUGHT
The board discussed the referendum Wednesday night, and has already presented it to the education department for approval.

The referendum is a projection of expenses for the next three years, including amounts necessary to cover last year's building cost increases due to construction delays caused by strikes and slow government approval.

The last referendum was July 6, 1965, with a supplementary referendum last December which was to have covered the increased costs, but was defeated.

ADDITIONS
Of the $4,000,000 total, $3,000,000 will be for building new classrooms and expanding facilities.

All 18 district schools need work, with Claremont senior secondary needing more classrooms, the three junior secondary schools needing both addition and renovation, and the 14 elementary schools needing additions.

"As many as four additional rooms are needed in some schools," Mrs. Lindsay said.

EQUIPMENT, SITES
She said the balance of the referendum money would be used for equipment purchases necessitated both by the growing student population and advances in educational methods and for site purchases, both for new school construction and enlarging areas of present schools.

"Sidney is growing so fast we may have to build there before the three years are up," she said. "Claremont is close to capacity now."

Hospitals Report Supported

Delegates to the Victoria Council will be invited to give their approval to the recommendations of the Agnew, Peckham report on this area's long-range hospital needs.

The consultants' study was the main topic of a labor council executive meeting Wednesday night.

"We are very satisfied with all the terms and hope the delegates will feel the same way at the council's next meeting," said Larry Ryan, the council's secretary.

He said the executive felt the recommendations on extended-care beds, which are being put together for a full referendum, deserved to be supported.

"While we think it is a very sensible plan, we are somewhat concerned about parochial politicians moving in," added Mr. Ryan. "However, the executive felt it should be supported because it is a broadly based proposal, covering the whole region."

Books Booming
TORONTO (CP)—Canadians imported between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000 worth of books outside the text book market last year. A survey predicts the output of books by Canadian publishers will double in 1970.

The letter to Mr. Trudeau on behalf of Jack Joseph Normandeau was written by lawyer John Kosak, a spokesman for the prime minister said. It had just arrived and the prime minister had not had a chance to deal with it.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Armed Forces Police, reached by the Colonel in Seattle, said they had no record of Mr. Normandeau on their list of deserters.

"We would have his name only if he was known to be in our area," said the spokesman. "If he's a deserter, and he's in your country, he's out of our hands."

Mr. Normandeau said in an interview here Tuesday he was afraid of being kidnapped and taken to Washington state to face a desertion charge in a military court. Two strangers seemed to be shadowing him here, he said.

He could not be reached Wednesday night. His brother Mr. Normandeau, born in Calgary and raised in Victoria, said he joined the U.S. Marines in Seattle in June, 1967, because he wanted to see for himself what it was like in Vietnam.

He said he went to Vietnam last December as a radio Danny said he did not wish to speak to reporters and referred callers to Mr. Kosak, the lawyer.

A spokesman for the prime minister's office said Mr. Kosak was asking for Mr. Trudeau's opinion on the case, but he did not go into details about the letter.

Dahlia Contest In August International

American hybrid dahlias will vie with Canadian growers' Dutch species at the Western International Gladiolus and Dahlia Show in Victoria Aug. 10 and 11.
The competition, first of its kind, is expected to draw more than 1,500 entries from as far east as Winnipeg and as far south as Salt Lake City, Utah, and Sacramento, Calif.
Many of the competing blooms will be flown to the city while those from the Lower Mainland, up-island, and the northwestern U.S. will probably arrive in buckets of ice, in air conditioned station wagons.
There will be no entry fee for the competition, sponsored by the Victoria Gladiolus and Dahlia Society, and entrants will be competing for trophies and ribbons.
Any one from western Canada and the United States is eligible to enter, and may do so up to judging time the first day of the show.
The public will be admitted to the Caring Club to see the show from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. Aug. 10 and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Aug. 11.

13-Year-Old Trip Winner

A 13-year-old Lake Cowichan boy who caught a 2.12-pound trout in Cowichan Lake on one of his first fishing trips has won the King Fisherman - Victoria Flying Club camp-out to Nahmint Lake.

He is Kenny Clevette, Box 276, Lake Cowichan, who will fly in to Nahmint Lake with Vic Dawson July 26 and will stay at Vic's Blackie's Cabin and take part in some wonderful rainbow trout fishing.

Mr. Dawson will fly to Cowichan Lake to pick up young Kenny at Cedar's Resort where he weighed in his prize-winning fish.

Kenny won't know about this trip until he reads this story, but it is expected he will take along his father, Frank.

"I am his chum. He will want to take me," said Mr. Clevette. "This is wonderful news. It will be a real fun weekend."

The prize trip is a hidden weight prize for youngsters 16 years and under who weighed fish into the King Fisherman Contest in May and June.

SOS Anglers

There is bound to be some difficulty in securing King Fisherman entries during the mail strike. One suggestion we have is that if any angler is returning to Victoria, he might ask the weigh-in station where he is fishing if there are any entry forms for the Colonist. If they are dropped in the slot at the Victoria Press building they will get to the King Fisherman secretary and be listed in the paper to give up-to-date fishing reports.

day morning and in half an hour got his limit of four, all in the 18-pound bracket.

The Tsarlip Indian Band boat ramp will hold its second annual fishing derby Aug. 10 and 11 with a program of fun for everybody planned.

Weigh-in will be at Hall's Boathouse and the Tsarlip boat ramp in Indian Bay at the Brentwood end of the Inlet and entry tickets, which will also be good for lucky draw prizes, are 50 cents each and obtainable from sporting goods stores and all Saanich Inlet boathouses. VSAA rules will apply.

All But Few of 410 Offices Shut Down

● Citizens try to cope as postal service comes to stop. Page 13.

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials of the postal unions and the post office department found something on which to agree Thursday — the strike by some 24,000 postal workers is a solid one. William Houle, co-chairman of the Council of Postal Unions, interviewed a few hours after the 2 a.m. PDT

start of the national strike, said, "It appears everyone is out."

A department spokesman agreed, "It's a pretty solid strike," he said. Of the department's 410 offices, all but a couple of dozen were effectively shut down. The walkout followed rejection by the council Wednesday of a 15-cent hourly wage increase over a 14-month contract and its demand for improvements in working conditions. The union wants a 75-cent hourly increase, though they say they'll tone this down if certain fringe benefits are granted.

Houle took a Canadian Press reporter on a tour of the council's spacious national strike headquarters in a centre-town office building here.

He pointed to a huge wall map showing Canada broken up into 15 strike zones and outlined the communication network.

Mediation meetings by Judge René Lévesque have been adjourned until 3 p.m. Sunday, when he will sit again with council and government treasury board representatives.

Houle said the strike is much better organized than the walkout in 1965. Most workers returned within a week, although Montreal unionists stayed out for 16 days.

A short, stocky, almost cherubic 30-year-old, Houle played a less important role in the 1965 strike and in the near-strike of 1966, when last-minute mediation averted a walkout. He was president of the Montreal local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers in those days.

Now, along with Roger Decarie, president of the Letter Carriers' Union of Canada, Houle is

Alternate Routes

Impact Due In a Week

By NANCY BROWN

Reaction to severed postal communications will climax in a week when companies offering alternatives to mail delivery expect to be inundated with messages.

Business boomed for telephone, telegraph, air express, and the U.S. mail service Thursday, the first day of the strike, as Victorians sought ways of getting messages through.

"But," said Gordon Murphy, spokesman for B.C. Telephone, "it wasn't so much that we couldn't handle it."

PHONES BUSY

"We had all available staff in, and our long distance phones were particularly busy, but I think we'll be all right for the first week."

He said business did not get out of hand during the 1965 strike, but was getting to that stage when the strike ended after a week.

"People and businesses can manage without mail for a while, but then they have to communicate if the community isn't to be crippled," he said.

REAL EFFECT

"That's when all communications systems will feel the real effect of the strike."

He appealed to all long distance callers to use direct dialing whenever possible to alleviate delays.

There seems to be little possibility of an early settlement according to Gerry Kenny, press

REGINA (CP) — T. C. Douglas said Thursday the federal executive of the New Democratic Party has asked him to stay on as leader until July, 1969.

"Don't count on my not going back to the House of Commons," he told a cheering crowd of delegates to the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan NDP.

Douglas, who suffered personal defeat in Burnaby-Seymour in the June 25 election, had indicated earlier he planned to relinquish the NDP leadership.

Returning to the province where he was premier from 1944 to 1961, Douglas said the NDP is "still a vital and living force in the political life of Canada."

As to his possible return to the Commons, the NDP leader said he would not want anyone to give up a seat for him, but there was always the chance of an opening "if someone breaks a leg."

"I will be spreading banana peels all over Parliament Hill," he added.

Douglas said the immediate outlook for agriculture is "not bright" and recollected that 25 years ago, western farmers organized a protest march in Ottawa.

Soviet-Bloc Demands Rejected

CZECHS UNDAUNTED

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's leaders rejected Thursday Soviet bloc demands that they abandon liberalization and return to the old-guard existence they cast aside six months ago.

In a television speech to the nation, Communist chief Alexander Dubcek said he and the party leadership were determined to continue the new policy though "our road will not be easy" and "we need calm and hard work."

Brezhnev to Prague?

As the Moscow-Prague confrontation thus seemed unresolved, there were these other developments:

● In London, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart suggested that the Soviet Union keep hands off Czechoslovakia.

● In Belgrade, a Yugoslav report from Prague said

Soviet Communist chief Leonid I. Brezhnev will meet with Dubcek Saturday and Sunday. Yugoslav President Tito was reported to have postponed briefly a trip to Prague to stress his solidarity with the independent-minded Czechoslovakia. The Yugoslav Communist party membership declared its full support for Prague in a voluminous document.

● In Moscow, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin met with Czech Deputy Premier Frantisek Hamour to discuss economic relations, the Soviet news agency Tass said. There were no details.

● In Prague it was announced that Soviet Marshal Ivan Yacubovskii will return to Moscow today after supervising withdrawal of Soviet troops from Czechoslovakia. About 16,000 Soviet troops were reported still in the country after Warsaw pact manoeuvres that ended June 30.

Dubcek said in his speech "we are solving problems which have amassed in past years in the party and in our society... and atmosphere has arisen when everyone can publicly, without fear, honestly and openly arrive at his own opinions."

In reply to a letter from the Soviet Union and four East-bloc allies demanding a halt to the "absolutely unacceptable" liberalization drive, the Czech party presidium denied

Fashion Notes From All Over

LONDON (UPI) — Two sentences in The Times Thursday provided a neat commentary on the changing times.

"The guests at the Scala Theatre last night for a sale of ballet costumes by Sotheby's," the newspaper said, "were dripping with pearls, swathed in chiffon, furs and figured brocades. And that was only some of the men."

Turner Turns Aside From Solidarity Line

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Turner will take his arguments for breaking up the Criminal Code revision bill into sections to the cabinet and the Liberal caucus.

One of the chief men he will have to convince is Prime Minister Trudeau, his predecessor in the justice department, who still favors putting the bill through Parliament as a single item.

Mr. Turner said in an interview Thursday he and Mr. Trudeau "share our convictions" about the proposals to change laws relating to such diverse subjects as abortion, homosexual conduct and control of firearms.

Whether the changes would be presented to Parliament as a single item or broken down into several separate bills is "a matter of tactics or strategy," Mr. Turner said.

Mr. Trudeau told a reporter Wednesday he still regards the bill as a single item. He added that if Mr. Turner "has grave reasons for changing it, I suppose we'd consider them."

Mr. Turner said earlier the bill might be broken up into several separate items, permitting MPs to vote against one particular matter without opposing the entire scope of change.

"I want to make sure that an MP who is against abortion but for a tougher firearms law doesn't lose his vote," Mr. Turner said.

He said there is no question of changing the content of the amendments, introduced in the last Parliament by Mr. Trudeau. The spring recess, during which Mr. Trudeau was elected party leader, and his election call less than three weeks later meant the bill died with the dissolution of Parliament.

B.C. Bank Opens Doors

Bennett Springs Surprises

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Bank of British Columbia was officially opened Thursday with a luncheon, ribbon-cutting ceremony and two surprise announcements.

Premier Bennett, who had fought since 1964 to bring the bank into being, added spice to the ceremony by announcing a start is expected to be made next March 1 on a towering provincial building in Vancouver into which the bank is expected to move its headquarters.

President Hall holds as Bennett snips

The 55-story building will house provincial offices and also provide headquarters for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and B.C. Hydro and Power Authority as well as the bank.

The second unexpected development was the announcement by Albert Hall, president of the new bank, that a Toronto office had been opened simultaneously Thursday. "This outlet will provide day-to-day information on eastern and international markets and provide the Bank of B.C. with an entry into the eastern money market which should prove very beneficial," said Mr. Hall.

It had been expected that the Toronto office, in effect an administrative office and clearing house for bank business but not a branch accepting deposits, would be opened sometime next year. It will be under the direction of Duke Scott.

"This is a great day for Vancouver and for British Columbia," said Mr. Bennett. "And it is a great day for Canada. We've really got co-operative federalism with this bank. Now B.C. will really be able to keep the rest of Canada afloat."

Ray Flying to U.S. In Tight Secrecy

Trans-Canada Emblem Washes Out Highway

TERRACE BAY, Ont. (CP) — Highway officials said Thursday it could take up to six days to repair a break in the Trans-Canada Highway caused by dam-building beavers.

The dam, about seven miles east of here, washed out one-and-a-half miles of highway when it broke Wednesday and allowed the lake it formed to flow across the road.

LONDON (UPI) — American authorities took custody of James Earl Ray Thursday night. They put the accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King aboard a plane bound for the United States but kept details of his journey secret.

The U.S. Embassy announced Ray had started his journey back to the United States but declined to enlarge on the trip schedule. Other sources said the former Missouri convict was taken to an airfield near London shortly after midnight London time.

LEGAL STEPS

Earlier Thursday British authorities completed legal steps allowing Ray's extradition to the United States.

Ray will go back to Memphis, Tenn., to stand trial for murder in the April 4 sniper slaying of the civil rights leader. Even Ray's American attorney, Arthur Hanes Sr. of Birmingham, Ala., did not know the schedule for Ray's return. He complained he was refused permission to fly back in the plane with Ray.

LAWYER ANGRY

"I don't want this man grilled, cross-examined and interrogated in the plane when I'm not there," Hanes said, adding he had told Ray to "keep his mouth shut" and "not even talk about the weather."

At Memphis, authorities prepared for Ray's arrival by imposing tight security around the concrete county building complex. State troopers, deputy sheriffs and city policemen were placed on duty around the building. They were armed with pistols and night sticks.

British authorities also were secretive about the trip. "There is nothing we can say at the moment," the press secretary for the British Home Office said.
